Snow Job?

Q. On Oct. 18, 1969 I subscribed to Ski Magazine through Interstate Publishers Service in Kansas City, Mo. I waited for my subscription, but never received it. I wrote to Interstate Publishers on Feb. 16, and a month later received a card saying my complaint had been filed with the publisher. Finally, on April 16 I wrote asking for a refund if they weren't going to honor their contract. I haven't heard a word since. Can you help? Mrs. R. M., Long Beach.

Action Line

A. ACTION LINE contacted the New York publishers of Ski Magazine, Universal Publishing and Distributing Corp. Larry Murphy, circulation manager, said he hadn't "the vaguest idea" why you never received your magazines, but he entered a new subscription for you and promised you will receive the first issue in September. Ski Magazine publishes only eight issues a year between September and March.

Guardian

Q. When I came to California in June, 1969, I found my grandmother had been made a ward of the county, and is living in a rest home in Los Angeles. I am not at all pleased with where she is, and would like to get her into a nicer home near where I live. I have been told that I must spend about $1,000 to have me declared her guardian, or leave her in the hands of the county. Isn't there anything I can do to get her moved? S. B., Long Beach.

A. Contact the office of the Los Angeles County Public Guardian at 625-3611. There you can talk to your grandmother's guardian, who will be glad to cooperate with you in finding a satisfactory living arrangement for your grandmother. As long as her own financial resources are adequate to pay for the quarters you select, and the home is approved by the county, you can arrange to have her moved without having yourself declared the legal guardian, according to a spokesman for the Public Guardian's office. If you wish to become her guardian, you must retain an attorney and file a legal petition for successor guardianship, the spokesman said.

Take a Canteen

Q. Is there a law requiring movie theaters to have a drinking fountain? I'm finding more and more there is no such thing and that you have to pay 21 cents for a nickel cola. R. H., Anaheim.

A. ACTION LINE contacted the Los Angeles County Health Department and the Anaheim and Los Angeles City Building Departments and could find no law or ordinance requiring drinking fountains in buildings used by the public. Many of the theaters put in fountains for the accommodation of their patrons; others obviously keep them out to improve their sale of beverages.

Out of Print

Q. About two months ago I responded to a mail solicitation from Skyline Color Laboratories, 1032 Champa St., Denver, Colo., and sent three color transparencies to have a large print made of each. I sent a check for $17.85, which has been cashed, but I still haven't received my prints. My letter of inquiry has not been answered. If nothing else, could you at least get my transparencies back for me? G. P. H., Long Beach.

A. ACTION LINE checked all available sources, but was unable to locate the company. Skyline Color Laboratories' phone has been disconnected. They were not required to have a business license in Denver, so couldn't be located through those records, and had filed no sales tax record with the city. The Better Business Bureau has had complaints similar to yours, but also has been unable to contact the company. If you will send a detailed account of your problem, along with a copy of your canceled check, to Postal Inspector in Charge, P.O. Box 329, Denver, Colo. 80201, they will investigate the matter if they feel possible mail fraud is involved. They have had no complaints to date.

Short Yearbook

Q. My daughter, a student at Bancroft Junior High, received her yearbook with a section of pages missing. Many of her friends are in this section, and she feels bad about it. Is it possible to get another book?

A. Unfortunately, the school did not retain any spare copies of the yearbook beyond the one file copy, said a spokesman for the Long Beach Unified School District. "We searched all over, but couldn't come up with one," he said. He added that the books apparently had been stapled improperly by the publishers, and many students found sections missing. Wegford Publishing Co. in Pasadena told ACTION LINE that they have no extra copies either.

AGED, BLIND, DISABLED HIT

Local Agencies Rip Reagan Cutback

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

Gov. Ronald Reagan ordered a massive, $25-million cutback in aid and services to aged, blind and disabled Californians Friday, triggering an equally large reaction from citizens deploring the governor's action.

Reagan said his action was designed to bring "runaway welfare costs back in check."

But Long Beach area

welfare agencies and officials at various governmental levels said that the governors' action would penalize those who need succor the most and allow those who routinely abuse the welfare system to escape unmolested.

In an administrative directive from the governor's offices in the Capitol, Reagan ordered that $24.5 million in state funds included in the newly-authorized budget be reduced to $14.5 million by eliminating or severely reducing homemaker and attendant care services.

Reagan's action automatically forced the federal government to reduce federal and local matching funds in the amount of $15 million, making the total loss to welfare recipients in the state nearly $30 million.

Hugh McIssac, director of Family Service of Long Beach, said that Reagan's action could have catastrophic results. Speaking as the area director of the National Association of said Reagan had erred in failing to recognize the vital need which the state and federal monies satisfied.

"The least-able are again being asked to pay for a drop in state revenue brought about by the grossest mismanagement of the economy," McIssac said.

McIssac said that the community's adult homemaker project — funded by the state and the American Cancer Society — amounted to $65,000 per year. Those funds would be aborted under Reagan's order.

"If this present climate prevails," McIssac said, "we will have to end the project."

Other representatives of the city's poverty agencies were similarly alarmed.

"It will emasculate our program," said one Central District worker. Another said blind and disabled people were fearful they would lose all assistance.

SAM BELL, director of the community's Project Work, said that he was "disturbed" by the portent of the Reagan action.

"I'm not sure it's final," he said. "I hope it's not."

Bell said that most of Project Work's employees were convinced that the

Nixon's Budget Deficit Seen Hitting $3 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are signs that President Nixon's budget for the fiscal year just ended will show a deficit of possibly $3 billion instead of the $1.8 billion estimated by the White House only seven weeks ago.

Administration sources said Friday a steep drop in corporation income tax collections, resulting from falling corporate profits, has clouded the budget outlook.

THE FINAL figures for fiscal 1970 — the government year that closed on June 30, and the first for which Nixon had sole budget responsibility — are expected in about 10 days.

Officials indicated that the spending total, which was estimated at $198.2 billion on May 19, will wind up slightly below $198 billion because of Administration pressures to hold spending down.

The original budget figures Nixon sent to Congress on Feb. 2 showed outlays at $197.9 billion and revenues totaling $199.4 billion, for a projected surplus of $1.5 billion.

The estimate of corporation profits soon proved to be far out of line. On May 19, Treasury and Budget Bureau officials issued revised figures. These showed that the surplus had turned into a $1.8 billion deficit, largely because of a $3 billion drop in estimated corporation tax collections. The revenue figure was reduced to $196.4 billion.

The income estimate was still too high, officials now report.

Though the income and outgo totals for the year are not yet final, officials said the lag in corporate earnings will result in a deficit substantially higher than the May 19 estimate. A figure of around $3 billion, more or less, was one of the informed guesses.

THE TREASURY'S daily statement for June 30, providing only preliminary figures, showed that corporation tax collections were not only below the Treasury's estimate but below the totals for fiscal 1969. They were $35.28 billion in fiscal 1970, compared with $38 billion in the previous year.

Individual income tax collections were relatively strong. But the shortfall in corporation earnings is expected to contribute to a worsening deficit in fiscal 1971 as well.

A FIRST-- POLARIS SUB HERE TODAY

Long Beach will see its first missile-equipped Polaris submarine today, when the USS Henry Clay arrives amid ceremonies at the Naval Station's Pier 15 for a four-day stopover. Escorted by Long Beach fireboats, the 425-foot craft, commanded by Cmdr. Robert Montross, will moor about 3 p.m. and receive greetings from Mayor Edwin W. Wade and the Long Beach Municipal Band.

General's Body Found in Crash

SAIGON (AP) — A rescue team recovered five bodies Friday from the wreckage of a helicopter which crashed into a mountain Tuesday carrying Maj. Gen. George W. Casey and six other Americans.

The U.S. Command said positive identification was not possible at once and continued to list all seven servicemen as officially missing.

Aerial searches found the helicopter, piloted by Casey, late Thursday on a mountain in Lam Dong Province, about 115 miles northeast of Saigon.

U.S. headquarters said the helicopter "apparently crashed and burned," but the cause was not determined. An investigation was ordered.

Casey, 48, commander of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division, was on his second tour of duty in Vietnam. If confirmed dead, he would be the seventh American general to die in the conflict.

Pagan Rite Evidence in Orange Co.

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

Four hippie-type youths, charged with two fiendish murders in Orange County, were accused Friday of dismembering the body of a shapely woman as a "sacrifice to Satan" which may have included cannibalism.

Authorities said after Mrs. Florence Brown, 31, was knifed to death June 3, her body was dismembered in pagan rites in the rugged Santa Ana Mountains.

Her remains were found in a shallow grave, but her heart, lungs, right arm, right thigh and three ribs have not been found.

Not far from the gravesite, evidence of a campfire was found, it was learned. Stephen C. Hurd, 20, of Santa Ana, was identified Friday as the "devil-worshipper" of the gang accused of the ax murder of Jerry Wayne Carlin on June 2, and the knife slaying of Mrs. Brown the following day.

ACCUSED with him in the slaying of Mrs. Brown, an El Toro schoolteacher and mother of five, are Herman H. Taylor and Christopher (Gypsy) Gibboney, both 17, and both of Santa Ana.

Hurd, Taylor and Arthur (Moose) Hulse, 16, of Garden Grove, are accused of the ax-budgeoning of Carlin, a 21-year-old gas station attendant. His body was found sprawled in the men's washroom of the station where he worked and from which $73 was stolen.

Another 16-year-old youth is expected to be arrested in connection with the slayings.

A 31-year-old woman, Melanie Daniels, who is held in the Orange County Jail on a narcotics charge, may be accused of "fingering" Mrs. Brown for death because the gang wanted her 1967 station wagon after their 1959 sedan stalled.

D.A. Cecil Hicks said he will ask the Orange County Grand Jury on Wednesday to indict them all.

HURD'S attorney, William K. Gamble, of Orange, told The Independent Press-Telegram the youth "is a confirmed drug addict, using up to 75 second tablets a day," and that he had an "obsession of devil-worshipping."

NO ACCORD YET Bus Talks Slated to Go on Today

Union bus drivers and the management of the Long Beach Public Transportation Company will try again this morning to head off a threatened bus strike.

William F. Farrell, president of the company, met with a team of union negotiators for nearly eight hours Friday in a futile attempt to settle contractual disagreements.

"But I can say that as long as we're talking, we're optimistic," Farrell said Friday night. Friday's meeting was called after union members voted to authorize a strike.

Farrell emphasized the 40,000 patrons of the bus line would have ample notice in the event a strike is called.

"They will have at least a two-day notice," he said. "Both the union and I are going all out to keep the buses running. We're doing everything possible and we're very optimistic."

Today's meeting, Farrell said, will begin at 10 a.m. and "it may end Saturday evening, it may go all night. Nobody knows."

"But there will be no strike Sunday and no strike Monday," he added.

Members of the Amalgamated Transit Union local voted two-to-one Wednesday to authorize the strike, but agreed to enter final negotiations with the company before a walkout.

Get-a-Tan Weather Weekend Forecast

Clear skies are on tap for the Long Beach area this weekend, the Weather Bureau reported Friday.

The mercury began heading toward a predicted high of 80 degrees after early morning low clouds gave way to mostly sunny skies. Friday's maximum temperature was 80 degrees also.

Light, variable offshore winds during morning hours are expected to blow from eight to 15 knots westerly during afternoons to day and Sunday.

Water temperatures at Southland beaches were expected to average 67 degrees, mountain areas will be mostly sunny with highs of 75 to 85 and some afternoon cloudiness, and highs of 105 and 112 were forecast for upper and lower desert areas.

Youths Help Fight Palos Verdes Fire

Nine units of fire fighters assisted by about 20 neighborhood youths contained a 20-acre brush fire Friday afternoon which for a time threatened to engulf two expensive Palos Verdes Estates homes.

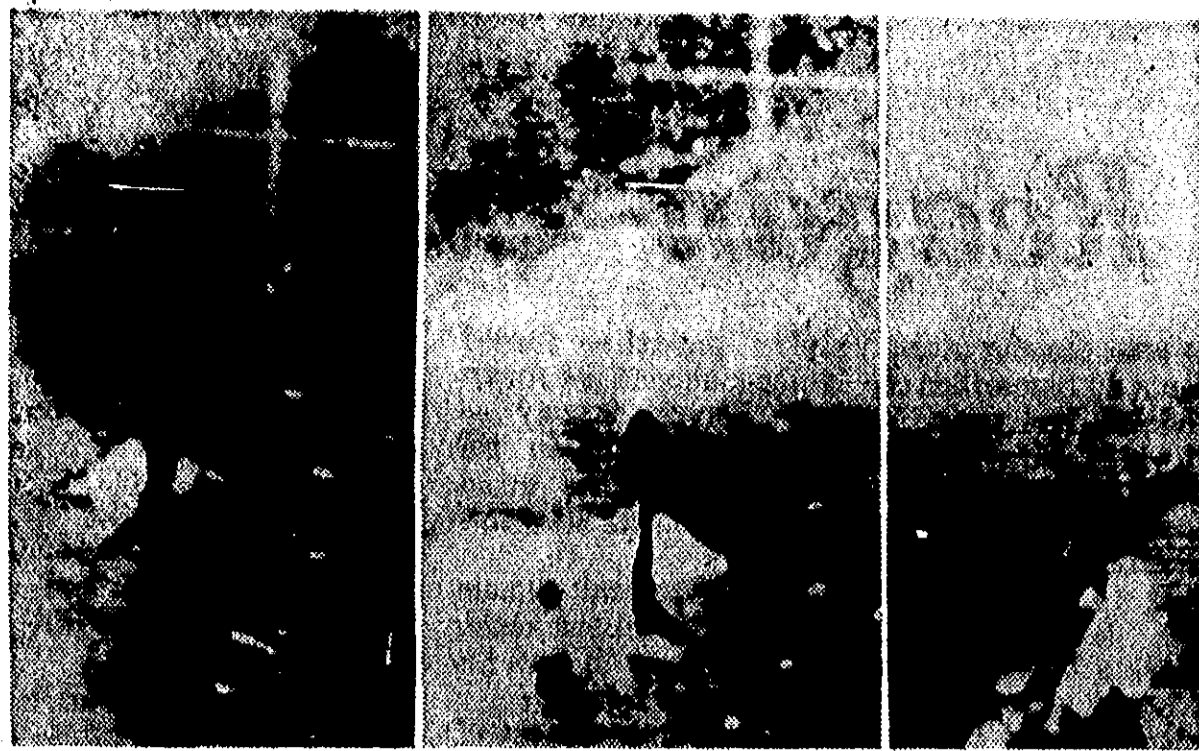

The blaze, centered in a steep canyon area near 1915 Via Coronel, was contained within two hours. The youths helped drag hose lines through the brush and watered down foliage with garden hoses.

Claim 23 Yanks Killed by A-Bomb

Combined News Services

TOKYO — A former warrant officer in Japan's Imperial Army said today that 23 American war prisoners were killed by the A-bomb which destroyed Hiroshima in 1945 one week before the end of World War II. Hiroshi Yanagida, 56, a member of the Japanese military police during the war, said he was in charge of the war prisoners and that he knew that 23 of them were killed, including one or two women. Japan's news agency told United Press International Yanagida's report was the first confirmation published in Japan of American dead in the Hiroshima atomic bomb. Yanagida said dog tags worn by the Americans were confiscated by U.S. military during the Allied occupation of defeated Japan. He said the Pentagon in Washington should have knowledge of the deaths.

Order Art Treasures Hidden

PHNOM PENH — Shaken by enemy occupation of the famed temples of Angkor, Cambodian authorities have ordered other art treasures taken from museums in the path of war and hidden in bomb-proof shelters. Evidence, so far, indicates that most of the damage of Cambodian art has been done by troops of the Cambodians and their South Vietnamese allies.

Abolition of 'Cages' Possible

SAIGON — The South Vietnamese government, bowing to U.S. pressure, sent an inspection team Friday to Con Son Island prison to investigate charges that some inmates were jailed in "tiger cages" and treated like animals. Prime Minister Tran Thien Kiem said "if as a result of the investigation, reports are accurate of the mistreatment of prisoners, then the government will take steps to redress the situation and order abolition of the 'tiger cages'."

Belfast Troops Set for Trouble

BELFAST — Twenty thousand troops and police stood ready Friday night for any trouble in Northern Ireland's weekend of parade and protest. Church and political leaders issued anxious appeals for peace, but the atmosphere in the divided province was such that a single outbreak of rock-throwing could set off a conflagration. More than 7,000 troops stood guard in Belfast for a tension-packed weekend culminating in Monday's Protestant parade to celebrate the victory of King William III over the Roman Catholic forces of James II in 1690.

3 Egyptian Planes Downed

TEL AVIV — Israeli warplanes were busy over two fronts Friday, shooting down three Egyptian planes over the Suez Canal and striking Jordanian army units. A spokesman said the downed planes were MIG21 fighter-bombers that had tried to intercept Israeli jets raiding targets along the blocked waterway. An Egyptian spokesman claimed two Israeli planes hit. He said all Egyptian planes returned safely from the encounter. The Israelis said the same about their planes.

Hijack-Terrorist Pleads Guilty

BEIRUT — Christian Belon, a Frenchman, pleaded guilty in a Beirut court Friday to charges of hijacking a TWA jet to Beirut, restricting the freedom of people and firing to terrorize. Belon said he was sympathetic to the Palestinian cause.

Potatoes on Greek Menus

ATHENS — The army-backed regime decreed that beginning Friday restaurants and taverns will have to include in their menus at least one potato meal for lunch or dinner. The order, from the minister of commerce, is designed to help absorb the country's potato surplus. "Greeks are great potato eaters," said a restaurant owner. "We hope the foreigners and tourists here will like eating them as well."

NATIONAL

Capital Protest Cost More Than 4th Rally

WASHINGTON — The pro-America rally here July 4 cost taxpayers $68,770, about $14,000 less than November's anti-war demonstration, the National Park Service said Friday. Park service figures show that $37,000 of the total July 4 cost went to pay for police for the rally that drew an estimated 350,000 persons. By comparison it cost $63,450 to handle 250,000 persons during the November demonstration. Of that $50,800 was for police.

The July 4 costs also included $17,060 for preparations, $3,010 to clean up, $5,000 to rent comfort stations and $1,700 to repair damage to public property. The park service said it cost $11,000 to replace and repair property, plants and turf damaged during the November demonstration and $11,150 to rent comfort stations.

'Coke' Denies Unfair Charges

WESTPORT — The firm which set up and ran Coca Cola's "Big Name Bingo" contest, Friday denied Federal Trade Commission charges that the contest was unfair. "There were no hidden rules involved in the contest as alleged in the FTC's proposed complaint," the company said. Contestants did submit correct entries according to the official rules of the contest and were each promptly awarded their prize of $100.

Nixon Plans Appalachia Visit

WASHINGTON — President Nixon will fly to Louisville, Ky., Tuesday to confer with 13 state governors on the economic situation in the depressed Appalachian mountain region. The White House said the President would meet with the Appalachian Regional Commission which promotes economic, social and industrial development in impoverished areas of the 13 states.

NASA Defends Offer From GE

WASHINGTON — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration named a committee Friday to reconsider the award of a $50-million contract for two Applications Technology satellites. At the same time NASA administrator Thomas Paine defended the process by which it chose the offer of General Electric Co. over that of Fairchild Hiller Corp. Paine assured Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., who had complained about the selection technique, that "NASA fully shares your belief that in all government procurements it is absolutely essential to avoid not only impropriety itself but even the appearance of impropriety." (Related story on Page A-6.)

Warden Claims Frame-Up

RENO — The warden of the Nevada State Prison told judges from more than 20 states Friday they had double-crossed him criticizing the prison after spending one night there. Warden Carl Hocker also chided the jurists attending a national trial judge program for being "set up" by the inmates. The judges said they had been shocked by activities in the prison. The warden told the judges "the prisoners were playing games with you."

FBI Joins Kidnap Search

LANSING — The FBI Friday joined in a search around Michigan's capital for a Negro kidnaper and his victim, the 16-year-old daughter of a former mayor. But despite the offer of a $5,000 reward and a televised plea by former Lansing Mayor Max Murnighan for the safe return of his daughter Laurie, police reported no fresh clues. She was abducted at gunpoint Thursday from an antique shop where she worked.

Firestone Ad-Claims Hit

WASHINGTON — The Federal Trade Commission charged Friday that Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. had made false or deceptive advertising claims about its tires' prices and safety. The commission issued a complaint Dec. 21 and gave Firestone 30 days to respond before trial hearings Aug. 17. Firestone denied all the FTC's allegations.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Mickey Cohen Pleads for Freedom

Combined News Services

Mickey Cohen, former bookmaker and now a broken man with six years remaining on his 15-year sentence for evading $200,000 in income taxes, pleaded Friday for his freedom. A U.S. judge took the case under advisement. Attorneys were ordered to file briefs by July 30 after which a decision will be made.

Cohen, 56, leaned heavily on a cane as he hobbled to a witness chair in a U.S. district court hearing on his petition for a writ of habeas corpus. He was left partially paralyzed in 1963 after a fellow inmate at the Atlanta Federal Prison beat him with a lead pipe.

"Until then," he said, "I was in charge of the tool room in the electrical shop. It was a responsible position... my immediate supervisor said I was doing a good job and as soon as I was eligible he would recommend me for meritorious good time." But Cohen never received the good time credit.

Cohen's attorney said: "What we want is 36 days meritorious credit for the first year and 60 days for each year thereafter. Cohen and his attorney backed away from allegations of cruel and unusual punishment as contained in the petition, prepared by another inmate, and from 'the part about allegedly improper care.' The petition had claimed Cohen's custodial and medical care violated his rights, but his attorney said he and Cohen did not want to 'advance this.'"

Cohen testified: "They've done a remarkable job to get my right hand back in operation." It is still partially paralyzed but "I can write with it." Asked whether he was physically able to work, Cohen said, "I don't know, but I could try."

COSTLY CAMPAIGN

Industrialist Norton Simon of Los Angeles reported Friday he spent nearly $2 million in his losing campaign for the Republican U.S. Senate nomination from California. This was three times that reported by incumbent Sen. George Murphy, who won by 1.3 million votes to 659,000 for Simon. Reports filed said Simon spent $1,985,299 compared to Murphy's $637,761.

NO TRACE

Maritime authorities found the wreckage Friday of a yacht aboard which former French Premier Felix Gaillard sailed for the French mainland Thursday. Customs officials said the bodies of two women passengers, a Mrs. De La Brosse and Miss Anne Dumont, were also discovered, but there was no trace of Gaillard and another sailing companion. The yacht apparently wrecked on rocks 20 miles southwest of the island of Jersey.

OVERJOYED

There was nothing artificial about Paulo Inacio's elation at getting out of jail in Niteroi, Brazil Friday. The 31-year-old prison inmate, told he was being freed on parole, bit an ear off guard Wilson Madeira, broke an arm of turnkey Elol Teixeira, kicked and punched two detectives to the floor and tried to strangle warden Aurelio de Brito Azevedo. Reporters saw a frightened clerk leap from a window and a soldier hide behind a door to escape the melee. Inacio, originally jailed for assault, was booked again for assault.

NIXON CLASS OF '34 TO MEET IN CAPITAL

A special reunion begins today for 55 members of the Whittier College class of 1934, the class that graduated Richard Milhouse Nixon 36 years ago. The group is scheduled to fly to Washington, D.C. today to start four days of touring, partying and remembering.

But the real reunion will come, the President's schedule permitting, when they arrive at the White House on Monday for a tour of the home of their most illustrious alumnus.

The President and Mrs. Nixon plan to meet with the group before the tour, and the President will have his picture taken with each member.

The idea for the Washington celebration came at the 35th reunion last year. President Nixon was unable to attend and it was suggested that the group go to Washington to meet with him this year.

CHICKEN THEORY

One of two youths who police theorize may have been "playing chicken" with an airliner has been arrested after a Boeing 727 was forced to swerve on the runway. Authorities at the Fresno air terminal said the pilot of a United Air Lines flight was forced to put his plane into a 180-degree slide Thursday night when two youths ran across the runway as the jet taxied in after landing. Charged with entering the restricted area of an air terminal and using a runway for walking purposes was Lynn David Bell, 20, Fresno.

SINGER REWED

British singer Matt Monro, remarried his wife of 12 years Friday in honor of their wedding anniversary. The couple was first married April 15, 1958, in London when he was a struggling singer to the point his bride purchased the marriage license and the wedding ring. During the second ceremony Friday in Las Vegas Monro paid for the license and purchased a new ring for his wife to match the original.

WARM WELCOME

U.S. Secretary of State William Rogers arrived in London Friday night bearing President Nixon's warm welcome for new British plans to maintain a military presence in Southeast Asia. The American statesman is there for two days of talks with Prime Minister Edward Heath's new Conservative government on international problems ranging from the Mideast crisis to nuclear weapons collaboration.

NO EXCUSE

Tan Ah Tiat, 49, charged with possession of opium, told a Kuala Lumpur judge Friday he was jobless because he was too old to work. Asked how he lived, Tan replied on the earnings of his grandmother. He was sentenced to four months in jail.

HIJACKER PLEA

Lawyers for imprisoned airplane hijacker Raphael Minichiello asked Friday that the former U.S. Marine lance corporal be provisionally freed pending trial. Minichiello, who forced a TWA Boeing 707 at gunpoint from California to Rome, has been in jail since he was apprehended last Nov. 1. His lawyers said Minichiello, has already served nine months, and has benefited from a general amnesty for all prisoners in Italy of two years. They also said they were sure Minichiello would not be condemned to a longer prison term. Minichiello has been indicted on five charges: bringing weapons into the country, illegal possession of firearms, kidnapping of a police officer, kidnapping the plane's crew and threats of violence against the plane's crew.

OWNER OF STOLEN CAR MUST PAY

A motorist has been held liable in a $21,500 damage suit on grounds he invited theft of his auto, which later figured in an accident, by leaving his keys in the car. A Philadelphia jury decided that William Burley, owner of the car, left the keys in the auto in a neighborhood where he could reasonably expect the car would be stolen and might figure in an accident.

The damage suit was filed by a couple and their two children injured when their car was struck by the stolen auto. The jury verdict came eight years after the accident.

Burley, agent of Local 57, Hod Carriers Laborers' union, and two men who stole the car were ordered to share in payment of the damages. The jury found the union also liable because Burley was on union business when his car was stolen.

BISHOP FREED

Released Friday by the Communist Chinese after 12 years in prison, Roman Catholic Bishop James Edward Walsh walked out of the country where he has spent half his life, across a border bridge and into freedom. After freeing the missionary, the Chinese announced that another American prisoner, Hugh Francis Redmond of Yonkers, N.Y., committed suicide three months ago.

Skirt Vote on Private School Aid

State Board Delays
as Rafferty Blasts
'Vagueness of Bill'

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

The State Board of Education skirted the old question of public aid to private education Friday but deferred any action beyond voting opposition to a bill which would provide partial tuition for church-school students.

However, Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty, who often acts as a board spokesman, said at a Los Angeles meeting that he would not oppose Sen. George Moscone's SB 1204 "were it less sloppily written."

THE BILL, now under consideration in Sacramento by the Senate Finance Committee, would provide "scholarships" of as yet undetermined amounts for pupils enrolled in designated non-religious courses at church schools.

Rafferty was critical of the Moscone bill's "vagueness over who would administer the program" and its failure to pinpoint how much money would be granted.

Representatives of Catholic and Protestant church schools expressed support of the bill, the discussion of which came near the close of the two-day board session. Opposition came from representatives of the California Teachers Association, school administrators and school boards.

Catholic schools representative Joseph P. McElligott based his arguments for support of SB 1204 on "soaring costs of education both public and private in California." He said the expense of educating former students from now-closed religious schools reached $35 million this year, will go higher should other financially imperiled schools shut down.

AND WALTER H. Hartkopf, speaking for both southern and northern sections of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, stressed the value of "the option offered parents in determining which schools their children attend." Public schools are strengthened by competition with other systems, he said.

Public school educators, while unanimously expressing sympathy for their private colleagues' fiscal plight, maintained that the state cannot afford to subsidize dual systems in a time when aid for public institutions is slipping.

This point was made by Cal Rossi, CTA acting executive secretary, in a telegram, by James Courson, California Association of Administrators executive and Joseph Brooks of California School Boards Association.

THE BOARD also considered the future of a proposed plan to begin a Planning, Programming, Budgeting System (PPBS) in California schools during the 1973 school year.

An intricately-constructed program, PPBS calls for educational goals to be clearly spelled out with testing programs devised to determine how well those aims have been achieved. Outlining it were a statewide study commission's chairman and member, Dale H. Scott and Richard D. Berg, respectively.

After board member Tony N. Sierra of Calexico, and others, suggested "We're moving too fast on this thing," a public hearing was scheduled for October to consider it in detail.

More Scholarships

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday signed a bill increasing by 50 per cent the number of state-sponsored scholarships to California high school graduates. He said it would make possible an additional 3,000 scholarships.

AMVET Commander—VA Hospital Criticism 'Unjust'

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

Veterans' hospitals have been unfairly criticized by the nation's news media in recent months, the national commander of the American Veterans of World War II, Korea and Vietnam said Friday in Long Beach.

Robert B. Gomulinski, the 37-year-old leader of AMVETS, attending the state convention of the veterans' group at the Edgewater Hyatt House, specifically took issue with a recent Life magazine article during an interview.

"Definitely they were out-and-out lies in most cases," Gomulinski charged, referring to an article which portrayed attendance to patients, working and living conditions at the hospitals as inadequate.

AMVETS National Executive Director Ralph Hall agreed with Gomulinski. Both said they based their countercharges on a letter from the director of a New

THE ARTICLE, published May 22, was entitled "From Vietnam to a V.A. Hospital — assignment to Neglect."

It charged that lack of trained personnel and overcrowded conditions produced "gross inadequacies" at the hospitals, the result of cuts in the Veterans' Hospitals budgets.

In the letter of reply from Dr. A. M. Kleinman, director of the Bronx Veterans' Hospital, Gomulinski said the article's title was termed a "cruel misnomer."

The letter was subsequently published by the magazine, he added.

Hall declared that most of the photographs and instances related in the magazine article had been "hand-picked" to make conditions at the hospital seem worse than they actually are.

"As for the stuff about lack of staff, yes, it's that way," he added, "but show me any hospital that isn't understaffed today."

The two AMVETS leaders also said a decline in new membership which has struck veterans groups during the war in Indochina may not be as severe as indicated in recent news articles.

"The percentage of Vietnam veterans joining is probably less than after WW II and Korea because following WW II there was a tremendous discharge of GIs all at once," Hall said.

"THE KID coming back is not stopped by people in the street, slapped on the back and told what a good job he did," he observed. "It's an unpopular conflict, and a lot of its veterans tend to disassociate themselves from the military."

But, he predicted, many will turn to veterans' organizations for the primary service they offer — advice and assistance concerning benefits available to veterans.

Gomulinski added that since AMVETS was founded following WW II, it attracts more younger men than other veterans' organizations which also involve WW I veterans — a fact that should attract Vietnam veterans.

The convention closed out its second day Thursday with a dance and beauty contest to choose the state's representative to the National Miss AMVETS contest later this year. Tonight, Gov. Ronald Reagan is slated to address a general assembly banquet for the more than 500 convention delegates.

Fountain Valley Mayor Guilty

Former Fountain Valley Mayor Robert D. Schwerdtfeger was placed on three years probation and fined $1,000 Friday for making obscene telephone calls to a political opponent.

Westminster Municipal Court Judge James K. Turner handed down the sentence, after a psychiatrist reported Schwerdtfeger was under severe "emotional stress" at the time because he was facing a recall action, and blamed City Councilman John D. Harper Jr. for his troubles.

Schwerdtfeger was recalled from office last September.

HE WHO STEALS 512 TONS OF TRASH TAKES BUT $5,634

The Yorba Linda City Council has been accused of stealing 512 tons of trash. That's right, trash.

Then, says an attorney for the owner of the land whereon the refuse once resided, the council had the temerity to bill his client for $5,634 for its removal.

The complaint came from Walter J. Husband, owner of five acres that until recently was decorated by old lumber, dried weeds and other oddments.

The land was supposed to be cleared under a weed abatement program, and Husband's attorney said Husband had arranged for it to be done under a $249 contract.

Then along came a contractor for the city, said the attorney, and moved it away without a by-your-leave. Bill: the aforementioned $5,634. Said the attorney to the council: "We reported this theft to the sheriff... $5,634 in trust."

The council agreed that "some compromise" should be reached in the case of the allegedly filched debris, and ordered the city attorney to seek same.

L.A. MUST REPAY TIPPLERS

Shay—How Y' Get a Refun'?

United Press International

Who is Piper going to pay? Two years ago Los Angeles levied a 5 per cent "tippler's tax" on every alcoholic drink sold in every bar in the city. It built into a tidy nest egg of $9.2 million.

Friday the city rescinded the tax after the California Supreme Court ruled that the state government already had preempted the sales tax field.

"We're in real serious trouble," said City Administrative Officer C. Erwin Piper.

Not only was the tax declared invalid, but the city council also ruled that all revenue collected to date must be "properly returned to the persons upon whom the tax was levied."

In other words, the money doesn't belong to the city. It doesn't belong to the bars. It belongs to the tipplers.

How then to get the proper refund to the legitimate consumer? Rare is the tippler who has proof of how many drinks he has consumed in the two-year period.

Bartenders, of course, have a fair gauge of their steadiest customers. But what of the St. Patrick's Day or New Year's Eve imbibers who seldom sets foot in a bar except on those amateur days?

Assistant City Attorney James A. Doherty said that bar patrons seeking a refund have three years to make their claims. He said that credit cards and expense account records might be helpful.

The greatest trouble is that the money has already gone into the city's general fund and been spent.

ROUSSELOT FOE DROPS RECOUNT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The recount of the votes in the 24th Congressional District Republican primary was called off Friday after the challenger of the results lost nine votes.

John Rousselet's 127-vote margin over Dr. Bill McColl stood officially unchanged because the recount was not completed. It ended after the absentee ballots and those from 199 of 537 precincts had been retabulated.

McColl, who paid $750 for the four days of recounting, said in a statement: "With the completion of the count of absentee and mutilated ballots and specially selected precincts, all possible errors and vote changes have been accounted for and no significant change in the final tabulation would occur."

Rousselet will face Democrat Myrlie Evers in the November general election. He defeated Mrs. Evers in a special election to determine who would fill the unexpired term of the late Rep. Glennard Lipscomb.

Pair Found Guilty in Gun Deal

Two Orange County men were convicted Friday of violating the 1968 Federal Gun Control Act.

Following a week-long jury trial in Los Angeles Federal Court, Gary Stella, 35, of 2131 W. Catalpa Ave., Anaheim, was convicted of possessing unregistered firearms and carrying a gun during the commission of a felony.

Charles Hatfield, 36, of 7413 El Verano Way, Buena Park, was convicted of possessing unregistered firearms.

U.S. Dist. Judge Francis C. Whelan scheduled sentencing for July 27.

Prosecutors charged Stella sold 43 machine guns and machine-gun receivers, miscellaneous machine-gun parts and about 27,000 rounds of ammunition to an undercover operative last Nov. 25 and 30.

STELLA also was charged with maintaining a large collection of unregistered machine guns at his home.

Government witnesses testified Stella said on several occasions he had sold machine guns to Cuban organizations, both for and against the Castro regime, and sold weapons to such revolutionary groups as the Black Panthers.

The weapons sold to the government informant included 28 .30-caliber machine gun receivers, two .50-caliber machine guns, two .30-caliber M-2 carbines and 10 .45-caliber Spitfire machine guns.

Soldier, Wife Get Life Prison Term

HERTFORD, England (AP) — A British soldier and his blonde wife were sentenced to life imprisonment Friday on charges of murdering a 10-year-old girl at a home they used for "sex games" with children.

The jury of 11 men and one woman took three hours to convict Pvt. Michael Joseph Haron, 24, and his wife, Carol, 23, of strangling Christine Beck.

Manson-Cult Jury Selection Closing

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

The jury to hear the Tate-LaBianca murder trial is expected to be seated Monday, prosecutors indicated Friday as the fourth week of jury selection came to an end.

The prosecutors' decision not to challenge any more jurors came only two days after they announced it would be "at least a month" before 12 satisfactory panelists could be found.

THE SURPRISE move by the DA's representative led to speculation that the latest announcement was, perhaps, another play in the "game" of selecting a jury.

Thus far the prosecution has eliminated 10 jurors by preemptory challenge, compared with six for the defense.

Ten times the entire defense team has accepted the jury "as constituted," while the prosecution has systematically eliminated all members of minority groups — Mexican-Americans, Negroes and Jews. Only one Mexican-American remains on the panel.

Last juror temporarily seated was the 141st to be questioned in the marathon jury quiz.

The panel currently includes two ex-policemen, a social worker, a mortician and several housewives. The long, slow process of jury selection has been held mostly behind closed doors as have motions submitted.

Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Charles Older ruled that the selection process be kept secret in order to keep the jury unbiased.

HIPPIE cult leader Charles Manson, who spent most of the past week in chambers, indicated to newsmen by hand signals that the entire process was insane.

WATER, OIL DON'T MIX IN COURT

A barrel of oil is worth $100 in Long Beach Municipal Court.

Judge Charles Smith Friday fined two shipping companies each $300 for three-barrel spills.

The ships involved were: the MS Sunshine State, owned by States Marine Lines Inc., which spilled three barrels on July 10 and the SS American Forwarder, owned by Amercargo of New York, which spilled three barrels on June 24.

ROTC Resolution 'Slips Through' for Assembly Support

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly went on record Friday in unanimous support of a resolution urging the state colleges and the University of California to "encourage and bolster" Reserve Officer Training Corps programs.

But a few assemblymen questioned how it came about.

The resolution by Assemblyman Ernest Mobley, R-Sanger, was among 29 items grouped together Friday for a single vote on the Assembly's consent calendar, a device for passage of routine and non-controversial legislation.

It was approved 59-0. However, the vote dropped to 55-0 before the roll was closed for the day after newsmen questioned legislators.

ASKED about his vote for the resolution, Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, said, "some people didn't do their homework, including me."

He called it "idiotic — even if you're for a contro-versal measure, you shouldn't try to slip it by."

"Thanks for ruining my day," Vasconcellos added.

Assembly Minority Leader John Miller, D-Berkeley, said he didn't think he would try to have the resolution vote rescinded, a move which could lead to a bitter floor debate, but he changed his own vote.

There were 25 Republicans and seven Democratic coauthors of the resolution in the Assembly.

"The resolution doesn't really do anything, it's the idea," Miller said.

"It's kind of jumping right in the middle of a controversy," said Assemblyman John Dunlap, D-Napa, another legislator who withdrew his vote.

THE RESOLUTION urges ROTC courses be offered for credit at state college and university campuses but that they be elective. It commends the citizen-soldier as "the mainstay of our armed forces" and "the backbone of our national defense."

Ask UC Record on Pauley Income

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A committee chairman Friday asked the University of California to point out where its records note the $7,200 profit from a "fire, money-maker" transaction involving Regent Edwin L. Pauley.

Chairman Paul Priolo, R-Pacific Palisades, of the Assembly Constitutional Amendments Committee, challenged Jay Michael, representative of the university, to show records which account for the transaction.

"SHOW ME where the $7,200 income is in your reports," said Priolo.

"That is not a separate item," replied Michael, "but it is shown. That action was taken in an open Board of Regents meeting. It is in the minutes. Nothing is improper about it."

"It's an absolute, sure-fire, money-maker," added Priolo.

The $7,200 was the University's share of proceeds from the sale of some of Pauley's oil stock through a holding group made up of university officials, including UC President Charles Hitch.

Assemblyman John Stull, R-Leucadia, questioned the propriety of the business transaction even though the university received a portion of the profits.

The committee was considering a constitutional amendment by Stull to require the university to report to the Legislature the amount of money it receives and how it is spent.

MICHAEL said that already was a state requirement. He said the figures were given to the State Finance Department.

The Stull constitutional amendment, which did not come to a vote, also would reduce the terms of regents from the current 16 years to 10 years, remove the president of the Mechanics Institute from the board and substitute the position with the president pro tempore of the Senate and require Senate confirmation of gubernatorial appointees to the regents.

Suit Seeks $18 Million for Prof Pay in Budget

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California State Employees Association asked the State Supreme Court Friday to put back into the state budget $18.6 million in higher education faculty salary raises the Legislature and Gov. Ronald Reagan deleted.

The organization, which claims more than 100,000 members, said it took the case to the Supreme Court because that is the only course which could result in a decision by September when classes resume.

The Legislature, in trying to balance the $59.9-billion budget, deleted about $10 million which would have paid for a five per cent salary increase for state college faculty members and another $8.6 million for a similar raise for University of California faculty members.

CSEA claims the money can be paid from a surplus which it estimates at $130 million.

The organization claims the Legislature's action was unconstitutional because the UC Regents have the power to set faculty salaries. The suit says the state Constitution prevents legislative interference with that power.

Dissent OK, But So Is Rebuttal--Agnew

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, in a signed article in today's New York Times, said although dissent is divisive, but there is nothing wrong with that.

"The dissent most under discussion these days separates the protesters from the Establishment and is therefore divisive," the vice president wrote. "I find it difficult to understand why those who properly defend the right to dissent at the same time condemn a strong defense by the Establishment just because it criticizes the dissenters' position."

Agnew said for people to be divided over ideas is natural, "and possibly stimulating to progress" and for the promotion of "civil tranquility" people should be brought together "in a peaceful, rational forum."

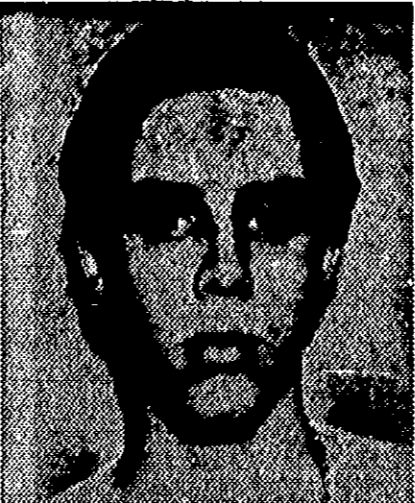

"The object of this coming together is not unanimity. This object is progress. It is achieved by unit based on constructive compromise."

He said the gangling youth is "a devotee of Anton Scandar LaVey, of San Francisco," whom Hurd proudly identified as "the Chief Devil of California."

Hurd said he wanted to go to the bay city to visit LaVey, but his car stalled at Sand Canyon Road and the Santa Ana Freeway.

After working on the car, and trying vainly to get it started, Hurd and his companions pushed it out of a service station lot to a frontage road, according to Gamble.

Within minutes, Mrs. Brown drove up — to a rendezvous with death, he said.

The youths yanked open the doors of her station wagon, pushed her away from the steering wheel, and took over, driving to an orange grove, according to Lt. Rick Drake, of the Orange County Sheriff's team of investigators.

raising three stepchildren, was stabbed 21 times in the back.

Lt. Drake said authorities recovered a military-type knife carried in combat boots. He said it was the murder weapon.

It could not be learned if this weapon was the knife used to dismember Mrs. Brown's body.

WHOEVER carved her body knew how, Lt. Drake disclosed. He said it was "like a professional would do it." He described the dissection as "neat" and said, "Whoever did it had some knowledge of human anatomy."

Attorney Gamble said Hurd insisted that he did not take part in the blood-soaked sacrificial rights to Satan.

Hurd also denied participating in the murder of Mrs. Brown or the slaying of Carlin, but said he was present on both occasions, Gamble recounted.

Hurd confessed to both murders because of "fear" that harm might come to his mother and sister, who live in Santa Ana, the defense counsel said.

youth is head of a motorcycle club known as the "Sons of Satan." He has a souped-up, chromed cycle.

It is incongruous to young Hurd that a Bible is in his cell; it is the only reading matter there, but Hurd won't touch it.

Hurd said he is afraid the devil "won't like the Bible being there, and wants someone to take it out."

The attorney said he will plead Hurd not guilty, and not guilty by reason of insanity.

HIS COURT appearance is set for July 20 — unless the Grand Jury indicts him Wednesday, in which case he would be arraigned July 17.

Authorities disclosed that they put Hurd in "medical isolation" for examination by psychiatrists, who reported him sane.

Although he wears his hair long and unkempt, and dresses "hippie style," Hurd dislikes being identified as a hippie.

Instead, he is a "devil worshiper" and he torments himself the only "true disciple" of the San Francisco leader.

Attorney Gamble said Hurd wanted to visit the "chief devil" in the Bay City and needed a car to get there after his broke down.

However, after Mrs. Brown's death the cult gang headed first to San Quentin Prison, where Miss Daniels wanted to visit a male friend. They were refused admittance, and turned back.

FRIGHTENED when a service station operator refused to accept Mrs. Brown's credit card for gasoline, the gang decided not to go to San Francisco for fear of arrest in a stolen car, and headed south, it was learned.

Near Los Gatos, they were fearful the car was "getting hot" and they torched it. They thumbed rides back to Orange County.

Gibboney later went to Portland, where he was arrested as a murder suspect. Extradition was sought.

Lt. Drake said that with the arrest of the 16-year-old, as yet unidentified, "we'll have them all."

In what was believed to be a related incident, a shotgun blast hit Lt. Drake's house at about 3 a.m. Friday.

Later, a man telephoned and warned Drake to beware.

"That's only a sample," he threatened, but the sheriff's officer said he was not frightened and would not be intimidated.

BUT FOR HER abuse of them, she might have lived. Hurd said "she called me a bum and a tramp," Lt. Drake recalled.

"She looked at me like I was a tramp," Hurd was quoted as complaining. "I asked her why she looked at me like that, and she said 'you look like a bum. I don't have to talk to you.'"

Canada Upsets U.S. Over Arctic Border

By GILBERT BAILEY
Contributing Editor

A Canadian move to claim jurisdiction over parts of the Arctic, extending 100 miles from Canadian territory, is a unique unilateral effort to stop pollution.

It is not a popular one, because it violates past maritime law, including the concept of freedom of the seas.

President Nixon has protested the Canadian act, because of U.S. interests in the Arctic.

But the Canadian government does not believe that freedom of the seas includes the freedom to pollute.

cate ecological balance of the Canadian Arctic.

CHRETIEN added, "Within a shipping safety control zone, ships will be required to comply with technical requirements regulating to hull structure, navigational aids, qualification of personnel and time and route of passage. Ships not meeting these requirements will not be permitted to enter the safety control zone."

Recent U.S. discovery of oil fields in the Arctic Ocean area may complicate the dispute.

The U.S.-Canadian dispute points up one more fact—There is no international standard for pollution control in the oceans.

Sewage discharges, control of oil spills, and other forms of pollution depend on the whims of the skipper and owners of the world's fleets.

JEAN Chretien, northern development minister for Canada, commented recently:

"For centuries emphasis has been placed on the right of shipping to the use of the world's sea lanes without regard to the effect this might have on adjacent coastal states."

The U.S. claims three nautical miles off its shores, many nations 12 miles, some South American nations claim 200 or more miles to protect their fisheries.

Wars have started over such claims, when they conflict with another nation's "right to freedom of the seas."

A number of shooting incidents, involving U.S. fishing boats, have occurred in South American waters during recent years.

The Canadians believe that the Arctic environment is unique and that it "can easily be spoiled or deteriorated . . . and it may never fully recover from an severe violation of nature . . ."

The Northwest Passage, once and historic myth but now open to giant oil-carrying tankers will still remain open to ships of all nations "subject to the necessary conditions required to protect the deli-

Reagan action was politically motivated. He predicted the move would backfire.

"With people trying to motivate and assure themselves in efforts to meet their basic needs, this action can only work to disenchant and disillusion them," Bell said.

Bell said that Project Work employs plan to launch immediate correspondence with area assemblymen and senators.

"We will try to impress upon them that this action will negate the minimal conditions which the aged, blind and disabled people have been striving for," he said.

"Any attempt to do so," said Reagan, "would contravene the clear intent of the administration's action which is to cut the cost of welfare at both the state and local levels."

REAGAN GETS STATE TAX PENALTY BILL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday a bill instituting a 5 per cent penalty for late payment of state income taxes on top of the present 6 per cent interest charge.

The bill by Assembly Robert Beverly, R-Manhattan Beach, approved 26-0, would also hit late-payers with an additional one-half per cent penalty each month for up to three years on the unpaid balance.

Killer Gets 2nd Death Sentence in California

OAKLAND (UPI) — A convicted murderer from Jackson, Mich., received his second death sentence in California Friday.

Chester A. Johnson, 23, received the death penalty after being convicted of the Feb. 19, 1969, murder of an Oakland dentist.

Johnson's female accomplice, 19-year-old Terry Jean Phelps, also of Jackson, Mich., was sentenced to life imprisonment for her part in the slaying of Dr. Glen Olsen.

Miss Phelps testified against Johnson in the Oakland trial and also at Johnson's trial in Los Angeles last December for the Hollywood murder of Loren Silliphant, 18-year-old son of Oscar-winning screenwriter Sterling Silliphant, one week before the Olsen murder.

Released Bishop at Service

HONG KONG (AP) — Roman Catholic Bishop James Edward Walsh, free at last from a Communist Chinese prison, took his first Holy Communion Saturday since being jailed on vague espionage charges 12 years ago.

The frail, white-haired, 79-year-old churchman awoke late on his first full day of freedom since 1958, had breakfast in his hospital bed and announced he was "feeling fine and very happy."

Doctors at Hong Kong's Maryknoll Hospital said the bishop was in "surprisingly good physical condition considering his long ordeal, and in excellent mental and emotional health."

If he continues satisfactory recuperation, they said, Bishop Walsh will be able to say mass Sunday for the first time since his arrest in Shanghai.

The Maryknoll priest, convicted in 1960 of running an "imperialist" spy ring, walked out of Red China, where he had spent half his life, and crossed a border bridge into freedom Friday.

After the Chinese freed the veteran missionary, they announced that another American prisoner, Hugh Francis Redmond of Yonkers, N.Y., committed suicide three months ago.

Justice Department Curbs Water Pollution Fight

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department revealed Friday that it had restricted the antipollution actions United States attorneys may take under the Refuse Act of 1899. The attorneys may act in cases in which significant discharges of pollutants into navigable waters are "accidental or infrequent." But the department has instructed them that they should not, without department approval, attempt to use the act to prevent or punish discharges "of a continuing nature resulting from the ordinary operations of a manufacturing plant."

In nine pages of instructions, issued recently, the Justice Department said that obviously discharges from industrial plants "pose the greatest threat to the environment." Nevertheless, it continued, it is precisely this kind of continuing pollution that Congress intended should be dealt with by the federal Water Quality Administration in the Interior Department.

Therefore, the Justice Department said, the abatement and elimination of such continuing pollution should be left to the interior programs and procedures.

The existence of the instructions came to light while Shiro Kashiwa, assistant attorney general for the Lands and Natural Resources Division, was testifying before the Senate commerce subcommittee on energy, natural resources and the environment.

He was opposing a bill to assure the right of citizens to file suits to protect the environment. Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., is the subcommittee chairman and co-author of the bill with Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D.

Hart became aware of the instructions from quotations from them in a prepared statement by James M. Moorman, an environmental lawyer, who was to testify after Kashiwa. When Hart read the quotations, dealing with enforcement of the 1899 act, and began to question Kashiwa, the assistant attorney general said that he would insert the complete instructions into the hearing record.

The act forbids discharges of refuse, except in liquid form, from streets and sewers, into navigable waters without a permit from the Army Corps of Engineers. Although the act enjoins United States attorneys "to vigorously prosecute all offenders," it has been rarely used until recently, largely because the Corps of Engineers has not insisted on permits and has not brought offenders to the attention of the attorneys.

In addition to civil remedies, the act provides criminal penalties, with fines of $500 to $2,500 a day or imprisonment from 30 days to a year. Finally, it provides that a citizen supplying information leading to a conviction shall get half the fine.

On the basis of this last provision, Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., has supplied information to the U.S. attorneys in his state about 150 alleged industrial polluters. In addition, Rep. Michael J. Harrington, D-Mass., has supplied alleged polluters in his state.

It was these actions, in the opinion of some conservationists, that touched off the Justice Department's instructions to the attorneys.

One department official said Friday that the attorneys in Wisconsin had been instructed to bring suit where warranted by the information supplied by Reuss. But, in line with the instructions, such suits would not be brought against continuing industrial polluters but only for "accidental or infrequent" pollution.

Hart took a dim view of the instructions on the refuse act. He told Kashiwa that Congress had specifically said that the Federal Water Pollution Control Act was not to be construed as superseding or limiting the refuse act.

Furthermore, Hart said that, in view of the time-consuming procedures of the Water Pollution Control Act and the slowness with which the federal Water Quality Administration sometimes acted, he thought the 1899 law was "more potent."

In any event, he said, the 1899 act could be used to complement the pollution control law.

Leonard Bickwit, a committee aide, told Kashiwa that he feared the instructions would discourage referral of polluters to the U.S. attorneys by the corps of engineers because the corps "sees you do not intend to prosecute where Interior is involved."

Later, Moorman told the committee that he would have thought Interior "would welcome use of the refuse act."

Kashiwa said that the department questioned the bill for the following reasons:

—It is inconsistent with federal laws vesting in state and local governments the primary responsibility for air and water pollution control.

—It authorizes private litigation even though the defendant might be in compliance with state laws.

—It authorizes the federal al courts to grant relief and thereby to interfere in administrative procedures and supersede administrative judgments that should be left to the "expertise" of administrative agencies.

He also said that the bill provided no standards for what was "unreasonable" pollution, leaving it up to the individual judge, who may have no expert knowledge of the subject.

BRINGS MADNESS, DEATH

Mercury in Waters of 14 States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Potentially dangerous levels of the toxic chemical mercury have been found in the waters of 14 states, leading one state to request federal disaster aid.

The metallic water pollutant — source of the 19th century "Mad Hatter's" disease — has forced fishing bans of varying degree in some waters of most of the affected states.

Alabama Gov. Albert

Brewer is alarmed about the economic consequences of a mercury-caused ban on commercial fishing in some 51,000 acres of state waterways. He says he will request federal disaster aid.

The major source of water-borne mercury, federal officials say, is discharge from industries using the metal in the manufacture of paper, chlorine, sodium, and plastics.

There have been no reported cases of mercury poisoning in this country from contaminated fish and shellfish. But 43 persons died in Japan a few years ago from fish contaminated by the discharge of a large plastics company.

Federal health officials suspect that cases exist but have escaped correct diagnosis, and that others may crop up soon regardless of new control measures.

The reason: mercury has a life of at least 100 years; water cannot be sanitized of existing millions of pounds; and the metal collects in and resists removal from vital human tissues, especially brain and nerve cells.

Mercury causes progressive brain damage, blindness, kidney disease, and even death when absorbed in large quantities.

The insanity that afflicted some 19th century hat makers using mercury to shrink felt fibers inspired Lewis Carroll's portrait of the Mad Hatter in "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland."

Mercury is also used as a fungicide on seed for grain crops. From the seed it has found its way into hogs in New Mexico, cattle in Oregon, and pheasants in Montana and California.

Sierra Club Attacks State Bill on Nuclear Power Plants

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Sierra Club Friday attacked a proposed nuclear power plant siting bill in the state Legislature and warned lawmakers the vote on it is going to be widely publicized.

Executive Director Michael McCloskey said the bill is the greatest legislative threat facing the state's environment and "a mockery of all the fine talk about ecology that we have heard from politicians in Sacramento over the last year."

The bill — AB 818 — would establish a power plant siting committee to expedite approval of nuclear power plant construction.

McCloskey said the conservation organization opposed the measure because it preempts the field, removing jurisdiction from state and local bodies such as air pollution control districts. He accused the Reagan administration of "a hoax" in its support of "home rule" in environmental legislation.

McCloskey said the argument is used to gut some conservation bills and ignore them when special interests are involved.

expediting utility construction, the PUC has attended to this with impressive zeal. But rather a careful look at how California can develop in an orderly fashion without offering up the coastline and other scenic resources as sacrificial lambs to the power industry."

He said the bill also fails to provide safeguards for lands dedicated for environmental purposes, such as state parks and wildlife refuges.

"The hazards of unplanned and expedient nuclear power plant construction on the California coastline cannot be overstated," McCloskey said. "Predictions end up with nuclear power plants on the coast every six to ten miles in less than 50 years."

"What we need at this time is not a new way of

Costs Cited in Pollution Fight

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "Fighting pollution costs money, and the public must be willing to pay for it," says a new member of the President's Citizen Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality.

Assemblyman Pete Wilson, R-San Diego, expects to attend the first meeting Aug. 31 in San Francisco of the group set up by President Nixon last year.

The urgent need is for co-ordinated efforts, Wilson said Friday.

U.S. to Detail Poor Educational Treatment of Chicanos

By ED ZUCKERMAN
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — A forthcoming report from the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights will provide overwhelming evidence that Mexican-Americans receive poor educational treatment, a California commission member told a Senate committee Friday.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., head of the Senate subcommittee on education, requested advance release of the survey so it can be included in a report to the Senate concerning President Nixon's $1.5-billion Emergency School Aid Act. The pending legislation is designed to provide funds to help speed school desegregation.

The commissioner, Manuel Ruiz of Los Angeles, could not comply with Pell's request. He said the report still needs approval of the full commission.

Ruiz, a lawyer, said he had been earlier successful in an attempt to obtain the information. He suggested the Senate committee use its power of subpoena if it really wanted an early opportunity to examine the report which has been languishing nearly two years while awaiting commission action.

"When you're not counted, you do not count," said Henry Ramirez, a commission staff member, in explaining the reason for the delay.

He hoped the first installments of the five-part report will be released in August.

"I wish we could get that data out. It's almost like dealing with the Department of Defense," said Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn.

Ramirez told the committee that the survey, the first comprehensive study ever made on Mexican-American education, "was a very severe eye opener."

The severity of problems — including dropout rates, academic achievement, financial support, teacher certification and segregation of facilities — is worse for Mexican-Americans than for "Indians, Negroes or Anglos," Ramirez asserted.

President Nixon's bill is designed to give special financial assistance to Southern school districts that have until September to comply with desegregation orders that have emanated from the Supreme Court, the U.S.

Department of Justice or the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Extra help would come by allowing double-counting of students in those districts for fund distribution purposes.

Ruiz and Ramirez were joined by Jose Cardenas, superintendent of Edgewood Independent Schools in San Antonio, Tex., in opposing the bill's double-counting provision. This is because the device would make most of the money available to the South and deter from the bill's national scope.

They also asked the bill be amended to provide additional funds with specific priorities for Mexican-Americans.

"The desegregation process intended by the bill, as now written, would greatly benefit Negro children but would be an exercise in futility to the Mexican-American child," Ruiz said.

One problem related by Cardenas is the failure of local, state and federal agencies to provide sufficient funds to poor school systems like his own.

The Edgewood system, which has an entirely Mexican-American enrollment and is situated within the city's corporate boundaries, "has the poorest people, the lowest tax support base and the highest percentage of noncertified teachers," he said.

Because of a severe fund shortage that barely pays for essential education programs, there are no funds remaining for participation in federal programs which often require local sharing of expenses, Cardenas said.

State support and certain types of federal support, which are distributed by the State Education Office, are squeezed further because the distributions are based on an "inaccurate" 1960 census. The census, Cardenas said, counts 2,927 Edgewood students as "disadvantaged" when there are now more than 12,000 who fit that category.

We do not participate in many federal programs," the school superintendent said. "It is ironic that the districts that need them the most, cannot afford them."

He further noted that the federal government is paying for the production of a series of bilingual educational television programs "and most of the schools in Southwest Texas won't be able to see them."

Nixon Has Best Chance for Second Term, Mansfield

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic leader of the Senate, predicted Friday that President Nixon would win reelection to a second term in 1972, as things now appear, despite foreign and domestic problems.

"The chances are in his favor," the Montana Democrat said. "We haven't come forward with a candidate of stature who could match him. Of course, what may happen in two years I don't know, but as of now his chances are better than any Democrat's."

Mansfield made the political assessment despite his expressed belief that Nixon is "in trouble" domestically and has gotten the country "in up to our necks" in Cambodia, even after the withdrawal of American troops.

"The best man we have at the present time is Ed Muskie," the senator said, "but you have to get out around the country and develop charisma and charm and a following. He has all these things but not in enough degree at this time."

Sen. Edward S. Muskie, from Maine, ran for vice president in 1968.

Klein Hits Demo TV Rebuttal

PARK CITY, Utah (U) — A White House aide Friday criticized the way Democrats used free network television time to rebut President Nixon. But the head of the CBS network said the content was the opposition party's own business.

The President's communications director, Herb Klein, and Dr. Frank Stanton, CBS president, spoke at the 1970 Broadcast Editorial Conference.

Klein criticized "The Loyal Opposition," broadcast by CBS Tuesday. The program featured National Democratic Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, who commented on filmed statements by Nixon.

Klein charged that the film clips had been taken out of context, and said O'Brien "wasn't discussing in a positive way the views of the loyal opposition."

He said the program "was one which looked in a very partisan way at the comments of the President."

Stanton responded: "I'm not here to defend Mr. O'Brien's presentation. When you give time to the principal opposition you have to assume they're responsible representatives of society."

"I think the loyal opposition will learn how to use this time as effectively as possible."

Bloody Good Record Broken by Drummer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sixteen gallons of blood. Drummer Alfred Ross, 64, the nation's top volunteer blood donor, reached that total last week when he gave a pint at a local blood bank.

"I haven't been giving with the idea of breaking records," he said last Friday. "It makes me feel good. Some people play golf — I give blood."

Since 1943, when he made his first donation for the son of a musician friend, the sturdy New York native has volunteered 128 pints of blood — 16 gallons. The body of a 175-pound man has about seven pints of blood.

Ross, who plays the drums in the pit orchestra of the musical "Zorba" at a downtown theater, said he expects to keep giving for two more years — until he reaches the national age limit of 66 for blood donors.

AS FOR Vietnam, the senator said President Nixon had told him privately that he intended to "get out" before his term expired at the end of 1972. His interpretation, he added, was that the President meant "all out, air cover, support troops, everything."

"I know the President would give anything to get out and put this thing behind him," Mansfield observed.

With respect to Cambodia, however, the senator said "indirectly, we're still involved, in up to our necks." This involvement, he explained, consists of the presence of South Vietnamese troops, U.S. advisers, U.S. logistic and air support and a five-fold increase in the U.S. military mission in Phnom Penh.

U Thant Sees Little Hope for Viet, Mideast Peace

WASHINGTON (U) — U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations, told a congressional audience Friday there is little present hope for a quick settlement of strife in Southeast Asia or the Mideast.

Thant, speaking to Members of Congress For Peace Through Law, called the Vietnamese conflict the worst horror story of modern times. He said the world must resolve to give the United Nations the means to implement the decisions it takes to force world peace.

Later in the afternoon, Thant conferred with President Nixon at the White House on some of the trouble spots he had mentioned in his earlier remarks — particularly the Middle East.

Joining him were Ralph J. Bunche, U.N. undersecretary, and Charles W. Yost, U.S. ambassador to the world organization.

The White House press secretary, Ronald Ziegler, said the Mideast was the paramount topic at the hour-long meeting.

Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's assistant for national security affairs, sat in for part of the session.

At the outset, Thant presented Nixon with a set of silver medallions commemorating the 25th birthday of the United Nations, and a set of postage stamps marking the anniversary.

He was guest of honor Friday night at a dinner marking the birthday.

Nixon meantime issued a proclamation designating Oct. 24 as United Nations Day. The date will mark the 25th anniversary of the formal activation of the U.N. charter.

The congressional group Thant addressed includes about 100 Senate and House members of both parties. It was established in 1957 with the avowed purpose of coordinating efforts toward peace through the United Nations, and seeking worldwide disarmament.

By coincidence, some senators had to leave the luncheon for a Senate vote approving a $20-million contribution toward expanding the United Nations headquarters in New York City.

Thant repeated his plea for a negotiated settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict in the Middle East but said he has been advised there is presently no real basis for reactivation of the U.N. mission in the area, "at least at this moment."

Apollomen Fear Cutbacks Hike Danger of Moonflight

SPACE CENTER, Houston (U) — Two Apollo 14 astronauts said Friday they are worried that demoralized space workers may lessen work standards in preparing the Apollo 14 spacecraft for a flight to the moon.

Apollo commander Alan B. Shepard and lunar module pilot Ed Mitchell said that they are concerned that cutbacks in the space program, which have caused layoffs at Cape Kennedy and elsewhere, may lead to poor morale and poor workmanship.

"I THINK we would be naive if we didn't assume that people are unhappy at Cape Kennedy," said Shepard, America's first man into space. "If you say 'well, I won't be working here tomorrow, why should I worry about that little screw I just dropped down there...'"

"We would all be naive if we didn't admit that this situation exists somewhere in the system," he said.

Mitchell said the "continuous delay" of Apollo 14 and the cutback makes people worry about their jobs.

"The people at the Cape, as dedicated as they are, can't help but be a little edgy when they see the fellow next to them get laid off his job and wonder if they're next."

"I don't have much doubt however, that the people will do the job that is expected of them," he said.

Mitchell said "positive steps" will be needed to prevent a "lessening of standards. Maybe the steps we have to take is to impress on the people that despite the fact they may be worried about their jobs, we're still counting on them."

SHEPARD and Mitchell made the statements during interviews. Workers at Cape Kennedy conduct the final assembly and check-out of Apollo spacecraft before they are launched.

Thousands of workers have been laid off at Cape Kennedy as a result of cutbacks in the space agency budget, which also have delayed the Apollo moon flight schedule. Apollo 14 now is scheduled to be launched early next year, the original schedule called for a launch this month.

200 WORKERS WILL LOSE JOBS IN SPACE CENTER

HOUSTON (UPI) — The director of the Manned Spacecraft Center Friday announced he has advised personnel that expected budget cutbacks will force the center to release about 200 civil service employees.

Dr. Robert R. Gilruth said in a memorandum distributed at MSC the manpower reduction was forecast by NASA headquarters in Washington "although congressional action on the NASA appropriation for fiscal year '71 is not complete."

Segregated Schools to Lose Tax Break

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon Administration announced Friday it will strip segregated private schools of their tax-exempt status — a policy change that could dry up their financial support.

Commissioner Randolph Thrower of the Internal Revenue Service stressed that the new order would apply nationwide to the estimated 10,000 private schools — from kindergarten to college — that now enjoy the favored tax-exempt status.

IRS said it "can no longer legally justify" allowing segregated schools to escape any taxes on their income — if any — and, more importantly, continue to allow donors to deduct the amount of their contributions from their income tax.

OBVIOUSLY, the new ruling could hit especially hard at the private, all-white academies that are springing up in the South as the government presses for public school desegregation under civil rights laws.

The decision which came during a week of massive government lawsuits to desegregate Southern schools, was developed jointly by the White House, and Treasury, Justice and Health, Education and Welfare Departments, Thrower told a news conference.

Although it was announced hurriedly late Friday, he brushed aside questions about the timing and said it had been 10 years in the making.

IRS acted in the wake of a three-judge decision of the U.S. District Court here ordering it to revoke the tax-exempt status of about 43 Mississippi private schools created so whites could circumvent court-ordered public school integration.

PRESSED by reporters, the only legal justification Thrower cited for the ruling was the law under which various organizations are allowed to receive charitable contributions which are tax-free to the donors.

"We feel that a private school that is racially discriminatory in its admissions policy is not meeting the broad standards of what is 'charitable,'" Thrower said. "There are also grave constitutional questions involved — especially where a school might have a state involvement."

Thrower indicated that the Mississippi schools covered by the court order would be the first ones asked about their tax-exempt status, starting "next week."

Other private schools will be asked and checked as quickly as possible, but the job probably will not be finished before classrooms open this fall.

IRS, Thrower said, does not have records now which show which private, tax-exempt schools are racially segregated.

A STATEMENT issued at the news conference said that IRS would "proceed without delay to make favorable rulings of exemption immediately available to private schools announcing racial nondiscriminatory admissions policies and to deny the benefit of tax-ex-

WASHINGTON (U) — The government took the last of segregated Florida school districts into court Friday, suing them to force desegregation by this fall.

The Justice Department, in a single suit filed in U.S. District Court in Jacksonville, named six Florida districts it said had not adopted voluntary plans to dismantle dual schools for black and white students or were not already being sued.

empt status and deductibility of contributions to racially discriminatory private schools."

The new IRS ruling, which Thrower said he fully expected to be appealed, perhaps to the Supreme Court, thus would hit private schools practicing racial discrimination in two important ways.

It would make the schools themselves subject to income taxes, and second, it would tend to shrink financial support for such schools by removing the tax deductible feature that has encouraged contributions in the form of charitable donations.

Thrower said the new policy would not affect religious schools which admit only pupils from that religion or would it be extended to other such tax-exempt groups such as fraternal clubs.

TUITION for private schools is not now deductible on income tax returns and would be unaffected by the ruling.

Thrower said IRS would allow a school to keep its tax-exempt status if it publishes a statement that it is open to all regardless of race. "We would assume that that statement was made in good faith," he said, but added that the 58 regional IRS offices would verify the statements through the "usual investigation procedure."

At the White House, press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said the new ruling was submitted to President Nixon before it was announced "and has his full concurrence."

Ziegler said the President, too, believed that the ruling would be appealed to the courts and that this was desirable.

"At the same time, the President is concerned with preserving the religious and other private schools that contribute much to the diversity and strength of the American educational system," Ziegler said.

COOKING WITH POT A NO-NO

TARRYTOWN, N.Y. (U) — Antonio Carrozzi, 57, was arrested Friday for growing marijuana in his vegetable garden, police said. He told police his wife used it for cooking.

Police said 300 plants of the illegal weed were found among the tomatoes, stringbeans, corn and lettuce Carrozzi cultivated on his property.

Carrozzi, who has lived in the area for 51 years, told police his wife used the marijuana seeds in soups and on Christmas sweets.

The seeds were obtained four years ago from a friend, police said Carrozzi told them and the leaves and stems of the matured plants, preferred by smokers, were thrown away.

Carrozzi was charged with a violation of the public health law and released in his own custody for a hearing next Thursday in North Tarrytown Village Court.

'TACTICS OF SCARCITY' U.S. Split Laid to Nixon Policy

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — "We are a nation about to be torn apart," civil rights leader Bayard Rustin said Friday.

Speaking at the 33rd national convention of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, the executive director of the A. Phillip Randolph Institute said the Nixon Administration's "tactics of scarcity" and Southern strategy have blinded the American people to the real and dangerous economic and social crises facing them.

"The poor no longer are prepared to remain poor," Rustin said, "and blacks are no longer prepared to remain second-class citizens."

RUSTIN charged the GOP Administration with diverting public and Congressional attention from the struggling economy with the recent U.S. push into Cambodia.

"The Cambodian venture was not military," he said. Instead, he maintained, it was another in a series of Administration attempts to sidetrack opposition to Nixon programs.

Rustin said the Administration has adopted a seemingly-liberal stance toward inflation, black equalization and welfare while at the same time instituting "tactics of scarcity," involving unemployment, tight money, and drastic cutbacks in federal aid programs.

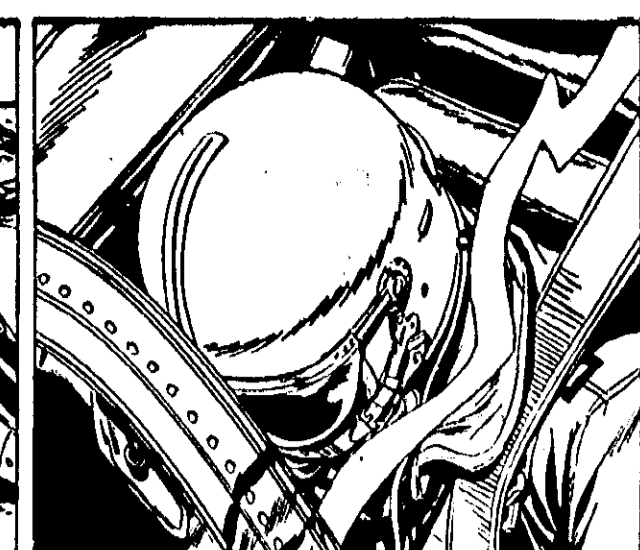

The "Philadelphia Plan," a Nixon move to infuse more blacks into building trade unions, was cited as an example.

RUSTIN SAID Nixon has approved the plan to appease the liberal element while simultaneously cutting back federal construction spending by 75 percent.

Rustin said the GOP with a Vice President Spiro Agnew in the vanguard is implementing its Southern strategy "to destroy that coalition of liberals aimed at restoring freedom in this nation."

A Grim 102nd Birthday for Slaves' Son in L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The son of freed slaves who emigrated to the West when he was 9, celebrated his 102nd birthday Friday, alone in a dingy $58-a-month hotel room.

Thomas Louis lives on Social Security and a small welfare check and spends most of his time sitting by the window, looking out of his room into an alley.

"I stay here," he said. "I listen to ball games. I love the Dodgers. Never been to a ball game since I've been here. I don't go nowhere."

He just sits in his room, a room he says he loves because it is his home.

"I don't think I'll be living much longer. I get around too slow. I get lost, so I stay around here pretty much. I don't go out of this block."

The block is lined with rescue missions, dingy hotels and boarded-up store fronts.

"I'm ready to die when the good Lord wants me. I ain't afraid of death. But I don't want to be cremated. I want to be buried decent. When Jesus calls, I want to be there in one piece."

LOCKHEED LANDS $200 MILLION PACTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six Navy contracts totaling more than $200 million were awarded Friday to Lockheed Missile and Space Co., Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., reported.

The work is to be performed in Sunnyvale and Burbank, Calif.

The contracts are:

For Poseidon missile production, $120 million; for engineering services for fleet ballistic missile systems, $34,277,882 and $10,703,200; for F-3A weapons systems work, $30 million; for modifications to operational systems in the development program for Poseidon missiles, $3,259,500, and for RP-3D aircraft $3.2 million.

Excessive Profits in Defense Denied

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The president of North American Rockwell Corp. said Friday the nation's defense posture is being eroded by criticism of excessive profits and cost overruns by the U.S. defense industry.

"Those much-publicized cost overruns were not synonymous with waste. Neither were they a symbol of excessive profits," Robert Anderson told the Commonwealth Club.

Atom Blast, Quake Link Disputed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even the most powerful underground nuclear explosions apparently do not cause big, distant earthquakes, two geologists reported Friday.

The scientists suggested in an article for Science Magazine that an earlier study which showed a correlation between the explosions and earthquakes may have been the result of a statistical fluke.

Dr. John H. Healy and P. Anthony Marshall, earthquake scientists for the U.S. Geological Survey at Menlo Park, said they updated the previous 1961-1966 report with figures through 1968.

"IN OUR judgment the data that we have examined do not show that nuclear explosions have causative relationships with distant earthquakes," they said.

"Even the most powerful explosions have not had a noticeable effect on the number of earthquakes detected by seismic networks, except in areas very close to the sites of the explosions."

They said their study showed that 446 small quakes occurred outside the test region in the 104 hours immediately after 23 nuclear explosions, but 47 occurred in the same interval preceding the explosions.

"RATHER they were the surface reflection of the cost uncertainties inherent in developing and manufacturing advanced systems."

The president of one of the nation's largest aerospace companies said denunciations of the U.S. defense industry is undermining public confidence in the integrity of defense procurement and is resulting in a "gradual erosion, a weakening of this nation's defense posture."

North American Rockwell, 30th largest industrial corporation in the United States, was awarded a $1.35-billion contract on June 5 for development and testing of seven prototypes for the B-1 bomber, which is designed to succeed the B-52.

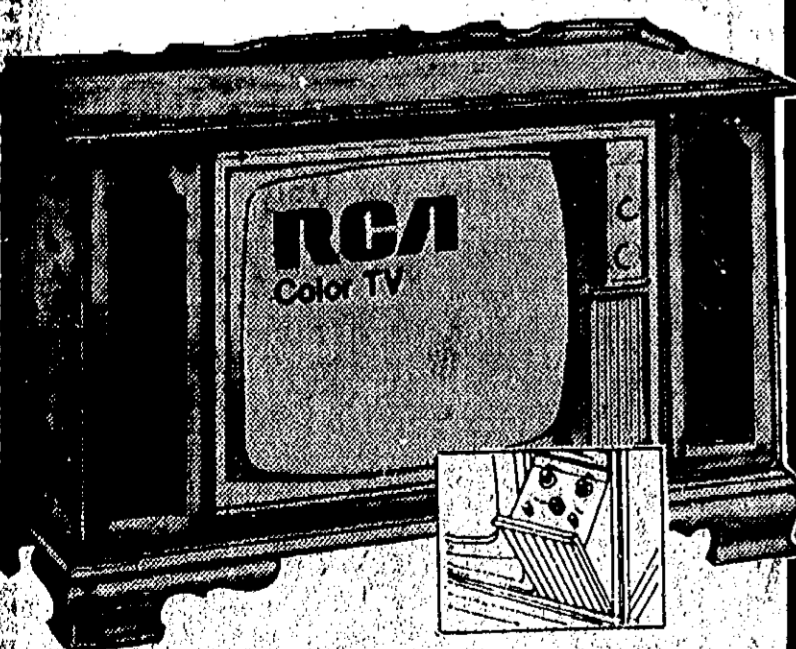

If the program is approved by Congress, it could lead to production of 200 planes worth $12 billion or more. North American has said 15,000 employees would be added to its payroll and the contract will mean work for about 7,000 subcontractors.

Preliminary Total Puts L.B. Population at 346,795

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

A preliminary population estimate for Long Beach — not counting personnel aboard the 120 U.S. Navy ships homeported here — is 346,795, according to the 1970 census.

The tentative total is nearly 50,000 fewer than the Planning Department's estimate of the city's population. This estimate, however, includes Navy personnel.

Mayor Edwin W. Wade said Friday he believes the Navy figures — which are compiled separately and sent directly to the U.S. Bureau of the Census — will total about 40,000.

THE OFFICIAL figure for the city was announced Friday by Mayor Wade following a meeting with Mrs. Ruth Todd, district manager for the census in the Long Beach area.

In the 1960 census, Long Beach had a population of 344,168 — but this included the Navy personnel.

The city's Planning Department, since the first of this year, has been estimating the Long Beach population at 393,000.

The County Regional Planning Commission, which makes quarterly reports of population, cur-

MAYOR EDWIN W. WADE discusses 1970 census figures which give Long Beach a population of 346,795 persons, excluding sailors stationed aboard 120 Navy vessels here. rently estimates that Long Beach has 385,904 residents.

Under census procedures, Mrs. Todd delivers all statistical information to headquarters of the U.S. Bureau of the Census, but gives population figures to the mayors of cities in her area.

The local district was bounded roughly by Artesia Boulevard on the north, San Gabriel River on the east, Western Avenue on the west and extended south to include Catalina and San Clemente islands.

The Long Beach Census office was opened Jan. 19 and closed last Thursday. It was staffed by 655 persons, including 650 field workers, Mrs. Todd said.

She was accompanied, in making her report to the mayor, by Mrs. Pearl Snyder, office manager, and Mrs. Maxine Smalley, field supervisor.

Mrs. Todd said the initial response of residents mailing in their census questionnaires ranged from about 90 per cent in East Long Beach to 50 or 60 per cent in other parts of the area.

FOLLOW-UPS were made by telephone and, eventually, by enumerators going door-to-door, Mrs. Todd said. Enumerators also called on convalescent hospitals, boarding houses, even jails, she said.

The local count included all military personnel assigned to shore bases in the area, but not those Navy men assigned to local "forces afloat."

To Leave The Things of A Child

They've turned their backs on the striped ball, tucked it away in a corner of the childhood they'll leave in a few years. But they'll be back to play the games of little boys. For once they cross the strand to the water's edge, the gruff voice of the sea will tell them the sea is a man's work. Boys must wait their turn.

Stereotyped Student Image Under Attack

By MOLLY BURRELL
Staff Writer

Two nondissenting student leaders at California State College at Long Beach Friday asked for increased community understanding of campus unrest, which they said is caused by a minority of the student body.

Associated Students President Ron Opalka, 23, and Larry Sosowski, 19, Student Commissioner of Public Relations told Long Beach Lions:

"Those who burn, riot, and demonstrate are a small minority and students should not be categorized, or stereotyped because of actions of these groups. . . . Political activity is just a small part of the many student activities at Long Beach. . . ."

IN THEIR talk titled "The Other Side of the Coin," the students declared thousands of dedicated students are too busy studying to riot.

Several hundred of them work with community youngsters in directing art, crafts and sports programs, many serve as Big Brothers, and 122 others tutor youngsters in schools and Juvenile Hall, Sosowski told the group at the Lafayette Hotel luncheon meeting.

Opalka, in urging an end to "stereotyping as a substitute for communication," said:

"If you prejudge by group identity, you have already stopped listening."

"The news media has a lot to do with stereotyping students," he added. "By definition news is that which is unique, unusual. In that context, perhaps we should be glad about the space given to riot and dissension," he added.

Sosowski reviewed what he called "non-news" projects by CSLB students which he said comprise a major portion of student activities.

These include the Experimental College of seminars and classes which are supported, governed, and chosen by students. These include seminars on the future of education, a course in the history of nonviolence, a history of the development of the blues, an advanced wine-tasting seminar and a class called "The Poor Scholar's Guide to Europe."

MOST AMBITIOUS project to date, aside from the volunteer Students for Community Involvement which includes the tutors, is the Child Day Care Center, Sosowski said. Scheduled to open next year, the project is designed to care for preschool children of student parents. Hopefully, he said, the facility will care for 50 children between 2-5 and fees will be at a minimum.

The student leaders are part of a newly formed Student Speakers Program which provides speakers on request to any community group.

Kidney Transplant Patient 'Doing Well'

Officials at Colorado General Hospital in Denver Friday reported that Julie Nielson, 12-year-old Long Beach kidney transplant recipient, is "doing extremely well" after her surgery Thursday.

"She was up, out of bed and in a wheel chair," said Dee Nielson, father of the child. Julie is the second of his daughters to undergo the kidney surgery.

"She looked real good," said Nielson, "and showed very good color."

"She's sore," said Mrs. Nielson, "but she's doing very well, all considered."

Mrs. Nielson said that both parents — and daughter Janis — are "well rested" and ready for the recuperation period now.

Census Figure Not Firm

The full impact of the Long Beach area census will not be known for several months, according to the regional director of the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

Richard Martin said Friday that "a firm figure on the Long Beach census will be at least a couple of months in the making."

All returns from census tabulations throughout the nation are directed to Jeffersonville, Ind., for final compilation.

"Larger states are processed last," said Martin.

"The primary objective is total population," said Martin. "Then we're concerned, secondarily, with the kind of housing the people have."

The variety of other questions which appeared on the census form will be analyzed at the Jeffersonville offices before release later this year, Martin said.

Car Stereo Gone

John Richard Bouw, of 3506 Ransom St., told police Friday burglars forced open a window of his car while it was parked near his home and took a stereo tape player and tapes valued at $144.

ORANGE CO. HAS 1,408,969

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

A preliminary report of the 1970 census indicates Orange County isn't adding to its population quite as fast as forecasters predicted.

Instead of a 1,440,000 population estimated by the county's recently-issued progress report, the Census Bureau said Friday that the population is 1,408,969.

Leonard C. Isley, regional director of the Census Bureau, said that the preliminary totals indicate 1,239,086 people live in the county's 28 cities, and 169,883 are in the rural areas.

The migration to the cities has shown a population gain of 104.7 per cent and rural areas increased 72.4 per cent in 10 years.

Although the cities did not grow as much as the county planning department had estimated, their percentages of increase were about the same.

Anahelm retains its title as the county's largest city, with 164,913 people, up 60,729 since the official census of 1960. It showed a gain of 58.3 per cent. Santa Ana is second, with 154,640. A gain of 54.1 per cent.

Garden Grove's status of third in size was clinched with 121,504 residents, a 44.2 per cent gain.

Huntington Beach, which increased 104,065 in population in the short span of 10 years, and which now has 115,557 residents, showed a spectacular growth of 905 per cent during the decade.

Youth Chorus Sings Tonight, Then On Tour

The Southern California Youth Chorus, featuring 67 high school and college students from the Southern California area, perform in concert at 8 tonight in the Millikan High School auditorium, 2800 Snowdon Ave., Long Beach.

Admission to the concert is $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students. Proceeds from the presentation go towards a musical scholarship fund sponsored by the group.

The Millikan concert is a preview of what the group will present in Japan and Expo '70 beginning on July 23.

Young Volunteers Perk Up City Park

The Nature Center in El Dorado Park East is "one of the finest projects in city history," and its junior naturalist program is proving a "tremendous success," Charles A. Stevens, president of the Recreation Commission, said Friday.

Members of the Recreation Commission toured the Nature Center, and also inspected the developments now under way in the eastern portion of the sprawling regional park in northeast Long Beach.

During the commissioners' visit, they sat in on a talk by one of the junior naturalists to about 40 Girl Scout Brownies.

"The enthusiasm of these volunteer naturalists is really impressive," Stevens said.

The junior naturalists are high school students who have been recommended by their science instructors, and they work three days a week for a three-week period conducting tours, manning the information desk and helping prepare displays.

"THESE YOUNGSTERS are interested in ecology and conservation, and they impart their enthusiasm to the young visitors," Stevens said.

Phil Peterson, supervisor of outdoor recreation for the Recreation Department, announced that the Nature Center, at 7550 E. Spring St., is now open for self-guided tours Tuesday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

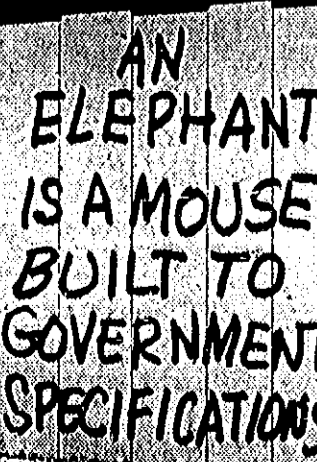

Peterson also announced that a few openings for junior naturalists still are available in the final period of the summer program, Aug. 11-30. Applications must be filed by July 29 at the Nature Center, he said.

The Recreation Commission tour also included the day camp, overnight camp and archery range in the central portion of El Dorado Park East and the area north of Wardlow Road, which is proposed for amusement concessions.

$5.4-MILLION, 10-YEAR PROJECT

CSLB College Union Due in January

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Fast-growing California State College at Long Beach is a 30,000-person city-in-itself.

But although the bustling Cal-State community is more than 20 years old, it has no community center.

Things will be different next January, when a huge, dusty pit in mid-campus — now filled with workmen scurrying over a sprawling concrete-and-steel skeleton — is transformed into a $5.4 million college union.

The union, conceived 10 years ago, is almost half done now.

"The college union should go a long way in unifying the campus," says Director Frank Noffke.

That's important on a commuter campus where many students don't feel like they're a part of the school, he says.

THE UNION, NOFFKE emphasizes, is financed totally by students through a $10-per-semester Associated Students fee. No state tax money is used.

Students also played a major role in planning the union. They outnumber faculty, administrators and alumni on the College Union Operating Board, which will run the union.

"It's of students, by students and for students," says Noffke, who has provided much of the technical expertise in planning the facility. Noffke has been a consultant or director of 60 college union programs throughout the country.

He views the Cal-State facility as "the union of the future."

It's a self-contained "living room" for the campus, complete with large lounges, food services, recreation areas, student government headquarters and sun decks.

It was planned for flexibility.

By means of sliding walls, rooms can be changed from large lounging areas to intimate meeting rooms.

Furniture is easily moveable.

"Rooms will be multipurpose and can be used for different activities from hour to hour," Noffke says.

Outdoors meshes with indoors through courtyards, pools, fountains, landscaped walkways, high ceilings, balconies around the buildings and large glassed-in areas.

"The building is built into the hillside so students can use the rooftop for lounging, eating and meeting," Noffke says.

PERHAPS BY THE year 2000, Noffke says, the union will include automatic cooked-to-order meals, a child-care center for student parents and elaborate closed-circuit TV programming.

The architect is Killingsworth, Brady & Associates of Long Beach, a firm which has designed several other campus buildings.

Interior furnishings, Noffke says, are "directly suggestive of the early California era."

"The physical location of the union should go a long way toward bringing the campus together," Noffke says. "It's built at a place where people intersect."

"We've tried to develop an environment where people will feel welcome and comfortable. It will go with student affairs programming that reaches out for students, instead of just offering them standard recreation and entertainment. It should also make education more efficient — students won't have to drive through miles of traffic to find a place to relax and study."

Second Hollywood Bowl Concert in 1970 Excels

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

In spite of the distraction of five passing planes, and an audience noticeably smaller than its predecessor, Thursday night's Hollywood Bowl concert, second evening of the 1970 season, was greatly more satisfying than opening night.

The new sound-reinforcement system was working better, for one thing. Even though one of the 20 speakers sputtered and failed halfway into the evening, the total sound profile was a model of clarity and naturalness such as we have heard few times at the Bowl in the past two decades.

Yes, climatic conditions seemed to be helping, too (a certain balance between humidity, wind activity, and who-knows-what-else creates near-perfect listening conditions once or twice each summer; I think that balance was struck Thursday), but informed sound-engineering was also at work, and none of the soft-or-loud excesses of Tuesday was repeated.

And the Los Angeles Philharmonic, under Josef Krips' driving and yet expansive leadership, played splendidly. Who would have expected such a throbbing, youthful reading of Tchaikovsky's "Pathetique" Symphony from one who was born (according to Baker's) in 1902? And yet, there it was, as palpating and urgent a reading of the ubiquitous Sixth as we have heard in years — and that must include Zubin Mehta's.

Why did the old "Pathetique" sound like a new piece? Because Krips kept its climaxes to a minimum, paced those few high points, never impeding the work's rhythmic flow, and let tensions accumulate. Thus, the first movement was not milked, the second could be straightforward, and the dynamic heights of the March did not aspire to the work's actual emotional peak, which should not be achieved until the final movement. And the finale was just that, the summing-up, the last plateau. What a disservice we do Tchaikovsky to judge his music upon lesser readings than this one!

But the catalog of good vibrations goes on: pianist Eugene Istomin presented a cherishable account of the Schumann Concerto (in spite of that errant sound-speaker, which fuzed during the Intermezzo), an attentive audience interrupted the music only once for applause, and those five airplanes, each one, seemed to pass over the amphitheater at moments when they caused least bother.

Istomin's Schumann may not breathe the urgency and brilliance of some of his contemporaries (Ashkenazy or Penna-rio, for instance), but the elegance, the spontaneity, and the articulation he brings to it cannot be faulted. And it is a reading all of a piece, self-contained, and without false heroics.

ERRATUM: Three small but crucial errors crept into Thursday's review of Tuesday's Bowl opening. In the third and fourth paragraphs: read "now" for "not" in the passage "Bowl management is now attempting to dissipate." Also, read "quartet" instead of "quarter," and "Dollar" instead of "Dodger."

and the articulation he brings to it cannot be faulted. And it is a reading all of a piece, self-contained, and without false heroics.

MOVIE GUIDE

THE MOONSHINE WAR — A young Kentuckian fights bootleggers and revenuers to keep his 150 gallons of aging whiskey until prohibition ends.

THE BOATNIKS — Accident-prone Coast Guard ensign Robert Morse tangles with a group of Southland jewel thieves. A Walt Disney comedy. (G)

THE LANDLORD — A poignant comedy. Beau Bridges buys a ghetto apartment house and moves in with his black tenants. Pearl Bailey, Diana Sands and Lee

Grant are excellent. (R)

BEYOND THE VALLEY OF THE DOLLS — Snickering exploitation. (X)

BENEATH THE PLANET OF THE APES — Astronaut Charlton Heston finds life under New York's ruins in his follow-up of "Planet of the Apes." (G)

M-A-S-H — Unique. Hilarious. Irreverent. Elliot Gould and Donald Sutherland brilliantly enact battlefield surgeons in a gory comedy that etches the absurdity of men at war. (R)

HELLO, DOLLY — Barbara Streisand is the matchmaking widow who matches hapless Walter Matthau for herself. A large-scale musical winner of four Oscars. (G)

KING OF THE GRIZZLIES — A predatory, cat-tie-raiding grizzly is hunted down by an Indian boy. A Walt Disney adventure filmed in northwest Canada. (G)

RATINGS
G — All ages admitted. General audiences.
GP — All ages admitted. Parental guidance suggested.

R — Restricted. Persons under 17 not admitted unless accompanied by parent or adult guardian.

IT'S NORTH TO ALASKA FOR HUGE TANKER

The SS Joseph D. Potts, second largest tanker of American registry ever to berth at Port of Long Beach, is scheduled for its maiden voyage on Cook's Inlet, Alaska, run today. Leased for three years from Mathiasen's Tanker Industries, Inc., Philadelphia, by Atlantic Richfield Co., Potts is 125 feet wide, 818 feet long and can carry 600,000 barrels of crude oil. Vessel will bring crude from Alaskan oil fields to Long Beach area Richfield refineries about 30 times yearly. SS Manhattan was only larger American tanker to have anchored at Long Beach, doing so in 1962. Richfield spokesmen said firm has placed orders for five more tankers, which are slated for delivery through 1974 and will bring Long Beach-Alaska run fleet to nearly one million dead-weight ton capacity. Port spokesmen reported firm will pay city a half-cent per barrel for oil delivered here, plus wharfage charges.

L.B. Community Hospital Promotes 2 Administrators

Walter M. Oliver

Bruce R. Sanderson

Hospital Center and held a similar position at Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

Sanderson, associate administrator at Community

Walter M. Oliver, administrator of Long Beach Community Hospital, has been named executive director there.

C. Duane Mooney, president of the hospital's board of directors, also announced Friday that Bruce R. Sanderson, the hospital's associate administrator, will succeed Oliver as administrator.

In his new post, Oliver will devote the major portion of his time to the long range planning and development of the hospital, while Sanderson will be responsible for all current administrative operations. Mooney hailed the two appointments as a "major advance" in the development of the hospital.

Oliver, hospital administrator since 1959, previously was administrator of the Palo Alto-Stanford

Church to Sponsor Antismoke Course

A five-day program to help smokers kick the habit will be sponsored by the First Seventh-day Adventist Church of Long Beach, 1001 E. Third Street, beginning at 7:30 p.m. July 19.

Conducting the program, which is free to the public, will be Dr. Harold Hebard and Robert L. Baldwin, pastor of the sponsoring church.

The team will administer daily personal control programs and conduct regular evening group therapy sessions, the first of which will open with a color film of a lung-cancer operation.

Ocean Boulevard Beauty Plan to Be Submitted

Plans for the final section of the West Ocean Boulevard widening and beautification project will be submitted Tuesday to the City Council.

The plans cover construction of a six-lane divided highway between Pacific and Golden avenues, similar in treatment to the improvement previously completed between Alamitos and Pacific avenues.

The estimated cost of the project is $540,000, most of which will come from gasoline tax funds. Included in the plans is the reconstruction of Cedar Avenue between Ocean Boulevard and Windsor Place. The roadway will be rebuilt, and a new pedestrian stairway will be built on the west side of Cedar Avenue. The old stairway on the east side will be eliminated.

MODERNIZATION of the traffic signal system, and installation of a new fire alarm system and a storm drain also will be included.

Until development of Boise Cascade's "Ocean-gate" project is further advanced, a temporary asphalt sidewalk will be constructed along the south side of Ocean Boulevard between Magnolia and Golden avenues.

City Manager John R. Mansell said terms of the contract will require the contractor to arrange his work so that two lanes of traffic will be maintained in each direction at all times, and so bus services through the construction area also will be maintained.

LBCC Burglary

Burglars forced open a classroom door at Long Beach City College, 4901 E. Carson St., and took a television valued at $300, police said Friday.

DALE W. ROBISON

A Jordan High and Long Beach City College product who is a Baptist pastor in Wisconsin has won a $12,000 grant from Marquette University, where he will begin doctoral studies this fall on the history of American religion.

He is Dale W. Robison, 32, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Robison of 5159 Levelside Ave., Lakewood. As a Jordan student, he was sports correspondent for these newspapers and class valedictorian.

After enlisting in the Navy for four years and mustering out as a yeoman, Robison graduated cum laude from Wheaton College in Illinois, and completed his post graduate work at Colgate Rochester Divinity School. For the past six years he has pastored Underwood Memorial Baptist Church of Wauwatosa, Wis.

Robison's wife, Karen, is assistant professor of nursing at the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee. They have two children.

BRIEFLY... Local Religious Art; Birth Control Modification Seen

Drop in at Covenant Presbyterian, Third and Atlantic, from noon to 10 p.m. today, for a look at some of the imaginative religious-themed art work, in all media, which was entered from this area in response to the "Man's Reach for God" program. Also on tap at the festival are dance, drama, music, poetry, and worship, continuing through Sunday morning worship hour.

IN A LITTLE noticed speech in French, to a predominantly French audience, Pope Paul VI made a statement that can be read as a significant modification of his ban on contraceptive methods of birth control.

The Catholic Messenger of Davenport, Iowa, in a belated report on the May 4th remarks made before some 2,000 married couples, says moral theologians are placing strong emphasis on a papal plea "that couples who conclude it is necessary to use contraceptives, in order to avoid harming their marriages, should continue to frequent the sacraments (and thus, implicitly, can expect absolution.)"

In the speech, the Pope voiced sympathy for the "agonizing" dilemma of Catholic couples who feel that "they are trapped in an impasse."

He called it a tragic error for such couples to believe that their choice lies between "revolting against a church which seems to them inhuman" or "hardening themselves to an impossible effort at the price of harmony and equilibrium or even the survival of the home."

Instead, the pontiff said, the distressed couples "should open themselves hopefully to the church in the certitude that all of her resources of grace are there to help them to grow to the perfection of their love."

Many before have read more into a Pope's words than he meant to imply, yet this certainly sounds like strong pastoral assurance that a Catholic couple may remain in good standing with the church and continue to receive the sacraments if they seek penitential assistance within the church — even if they have not been able to abide by the ban on contraception.

HOW WOULD you like to help some earnest and talented young people working with area kids at Trinity Baptist, 1630 E. 14th St., in a fine program desperately handicapped by lack of arts and crafts materials. The "MATE" affiliated program (American Baptist Convention race relations group) is at the church Tuesday through Friday, 1 to 4 p.m.

APPROVAL OF ordination of women, expected at the October convention of the American Lutheran Church, will hurt the pulpit and altar fellowship with the more theologically conservative Missouri Synod.

Dr. Jacob A. O. Preus, president of the Synod, has already expressed regrets that the third major Lutheran body, the Lutheran Church in America, approved the proposal.

"I think it will be somewhat detrimental to our relations," he said. Some elements in the Missouri Synod who never welcomed the fellowship with the ALC, Preus speculates, may use the ordination issue to try to rescind the fellowship agreement.

These problems within the Lutheran family may give one a slight inkling of how starry-eyed some people in the National Council of Churches are in talking about a revamping to include all the more evangelical groups and the Roman Catholics!

Someone has said: "If you plan to write your name in fresh cement, you must do it before, not after, the cement hardens."

Because children are so very impressionable, the gospel of Jesus Christ finds a ready acceptance in their hearts and minds. Although children are open to the gospel, they are equally open to beer commercials, exploitation of sex, and questionable movies labeled "adults only." Sunday Bible School provides a positive influence and a happy experience in young lives already overcrowded with negative and unhappy experiences. It is good stewardship, then, to "suffer (permit) little children" to come to Christ.

We of the First Baptist Church of Long Beach have made provision in our program to include your child and you.

First Lutheran Breaks Ground, and in More Ways Than One

By LES RODNEY

While every groundbreaking for new construction has meaning to someone, it is a fair statement that the groundbreaking Sunday morning at First Lutheran Church for a $330,000 educational addition can be called one of significance to the future of Long Beach.

Geography, and philosophy, make it so.

First Lutheran, a Missouri Synod congregation nearing its 70th birthday, is a "downtown" church located at Atlantic Avenue and Ninth Street. Its 59-year-old school abuts at Linden and 10th.

At a time of national talk of inner cities going downhill, the decision to build by the 900-member church reflects a Christian determination to serve the area, rather than move out, explain the pastor, Rev. Edward H. Schroeder, the school principal, Paul R. Brott, and the church's lay leaders. It also most importantly signals confidence in the future vitality of downtown Long Beach.

"THIS IS in line with the Synod's national policies," commented Brott, and lay leader Lee H. Andrist. "They would like our churches, if they are already there, to stay in the inner cities. Education is a central part of our mission, and we are building to provide better facilities."

Ministering to the immediate area is not entirely some abstract concept for the future at First Lutheran. The church school did a modest bit of "ground-breaking" back in 1966. For five years now it has conducted a creative two week summer recreation program for underprivileged area children, most of them black. This year's reached a new high, with a daily average of 138 boys and girls, age 4-14, in the program. And, it is reported, the 1970 program was tops not only in numbers, but in enthusiasm, in participation by church members and in relationships with both the kids and their parents.

Headed by director Jim Shepherd, of the school staff, the program draws on the volunteer assistance of 35 church members, including high school and college age people who work directly with the

'DRESS-UP TIME' FOR YOUNGSTERS AT CHURCH SCHOOL'S SUMMER PROGRAM
Fifth Year Was Best for Area Recreational Effort kinds. (First Lutheran has an impressive youth group, with as many as 80 active high schoolers.)

But age is hardly a barrier in this program. Middle year housewives play an active role, and a pair of sisters age 92 and 97, repeat, 92 and 97, have baked some of the cookies that go along with the donated milk at snack time.

AFTER DEVOTIONS for the helpers, and then for the children (non-denominational Christian devotionals, most of the kids are not of Lutheran background), there are arts and crafts, quiet corner, ping pong, folk dancing, free play and sports outside on the school playground, a musical and devotional closing, and at noon, occasional discussion if called for.

Films, fun and games, picnics and trips spice the program. This year, more than 100 of the older children went through the Universal movie lot, and the younger ones enjoyed an outing to the deer park in Buena Park. A potluck family night brings the parents in toward the end.

"The behavior and participation of the children this year was outstanding," enthused Shepherd. "Better than ever. I have to feel this is a credit to their parents, and to their public school teachers. I say this as a parochial school teacher, cheerfully."

Says Brott, who has been with First Lutheran School 15 years, and principal for five years: "What we are trying to do is develop a tone of working together, of appreciation one for the other. It has been a joy to work with these children, and to watch this develop. Our common faith is a greater uniting factor than any differences..."

The groundbreaking, which will be a continuation of the 8:30 a.m. service, will not only represent the hope of establishing an outreach into the central community, but will celebrate the fact of such an outreach.

IN ADDITION to the school facilities, the addition will include administrative offices, which the church never had, a library, and modern facilities suitable for Head Start.

As the school prepares to build, Brott sees a bright future for Christian education. "People are critical of the public school system for reasons that the public schools can't control," he observes. "The bigness, the difficulty in establishing personal relationship.

CRAFT WORK ENGROSSES YOUNGSTERS
Young, Old Church People Help

These are inescapable facts today. We're not in any way in competition with the public schools."

The church's role in the community attempts to overlook no part of the population, whether young, older, less or more affluent, permanent or here for a limited period. As an example, there are special Bible classes for Navy wives.

"We run the gamut here," says Brott. "We look ahead also to a future of many newcomers, more

Witnesses Meet in Anaheim Expected to Draw 50,000

Approximately 50,000 persons are expected at Anaheim Stadium Thursday for the four-day "Men of Goodwill" District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses. Some 1,000 will attend from the Long Beach area.

According to officials, the meeting will deal with down-to-earth discussions of the Bible, and the problems of daily living.

As is traditional with Witnesses, thousands will attend with their entire families. Children often conduct Bible studies and accept the ministry of door-to-door evangelism. The Witnesses point to many youthful ministers in the Bible.

Another characteristic of the assembly will be the work of thousands of volunteers to expedite the details connected with the massive meet, including the preparation of 80,000 meals in the parking areas.

Scheduled are a mass baptism of 9 a.m. Friday, talks and dramas highlighting the Bible's role for today, and a concluding talk on Sunday, July 19, "Saving the Human Race—the Kingdom Way."

apartment house dwellers, and many children to be served."

First Lutheran seems to have the credentials for the never easy but always gratifying role of being a truly Christian component of the downtown scene.

The name Jehovah's Witnesses is taken from the Bible at Isaiah 43:10. The evangelistic sect reports 1,340,000 members, all of whom are termed ministers, in 203 countries. Its theology is fundamentalist, based on an understanding of the Bible which sees the "final days" having begun in 1914 with World War One. Many Witnesses have served jail sentences because of their belief that the Bible calls for conscientious objection to war and killing.

The public is invited to all sessions of the assembly.

MURK FAMILY AT FIRST BRETHREN

The famed Murk Family Musicales, a sensational hit in its Bellflower appearance two weeks ago, will appear Sunday at 9:30 a.m. for the Sunday School and 10:45 for the morning service at First Brethren Church, 3601 Linden and Linden Avenue.

The family of seven from Wheaton, Ill., headed by Jim Murk (winner of a CBS-TV championship) and the gifted mother, Donna, has been called by the Chicago Tribune the equivalent "of the famous Von Trapp singers who inspired The Sound of Music."

Bible School Set

Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity at 1900 E. Carson St. will hold its Vacation Bible School for children 3 to 14, from July 20 through July 31, Monday through Friday, 9 to 11:45 a.m. The school will use Concordia materials entitled "My Country Under God." All children are invited.

FROM THE PULPIT

Imitation is always a high form of flattery. Over the past six years we have been told that this column is read by great multitudes of people. We are glad for this and note that others are now using similar columns.

We have used this column because we have something to say. We have something to say about Christ, while others seem so timid in speaking of Him, we preach Christ crucified, risen and coming again. We have something to say about His Word. There has never been a negative or doubtful note sounded from this pulpit concerning the infallible Word. And we have something to say about the church. "The gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Occasionally we have something to say about issues that we feel adversely affect our community. These are important, too. But mostly we say with Paul, "I am determined to know nothing but Christ and Him crucified!" Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

CONFIDENT LIVING

Keep It Simple

How confident are you? Do you really feel assured that you can handle the problems that are always coming up? Do you feel you can do your job effectively? Or do you have instead a big, bothersome inferiority complex and a miserable feeling of inadequacy? Of course all of us are poor, weak human beings sometimes and there are times when we get so scared and frightened about our lives that we lose our true perspective.

I received a letter the other day from a soldier. He said he had been reading my books and he tried to figure out why they made sense. He said, "I finally decided it's because your message is so simple." Then he proceeded to apologize for calling me simple. But actually I consider that quite a compliment for the only way you can ever get an idea over or really communicate is to make it simple.

SO HERE is a simple idea: If you want to have confidence that will sustain you in a steady fashion, first you must do the best you can. Then put everything in the good Lord's hands and be an optimist, believing that things will turn out all right. The surest way to overcome the errors within you and all around you is simply to do the best you can. Think things through carefully and then do your best.

Some time ago I was riding in a taxicab with a very successful business executive. We got into the cab and told the driver the address we wished to go to. The driver turned around and said, "I'm sorry, but you'll have to tell me how to get there. You see I've only been driving a week and I don't know that part of town, but if you tell me how to go, I'll get you there."

I explained the directions and the driver took off. Then he said, "I'm sorry I had to ask, but I've got to learn how to do this job well. But one thing is sure, no one will ever have to tell me how to get to that place again. Thank you."

My friend said to the driver, "With that attitude you'll be a great success in this job. In fact, I think you'll make it in anything you try, if you always keep it that simple!"

The driver could have been afraid to reveal his ignorance. He could have been confused or uncertain. He might have acted like he knew his way around, made a stab at it and gotten all fouled up. But he took the simplest course. He explained his problem and got his solution.

The problems in your life may be a lot more complicated than a taxi driver finding a street address. I'm sure they are. But if you remember that formula, "Keep it simple," it can reduce some of the biggest problems to the smallest trifles. Why? Because simplicity of approach causes an air of optimism. You don't have to worry about simple things, you can stay optimistic about them.

Some time ago I sat at a dinner with Mrs. Frank Borman, wife of the famous astronaut of Apollo 8. I asked her what I guess most people would have asked: "How does it feel to know your husband is going to the moon?"

SHE SAID, "The only bad time I had was when he was going around the back side of the moon. All my prayers throughout my lifetime had to do with earth and I wasn't equipped to handle that 45 minutes when he would be completely out of contact with earth on the back of the moon. So," said she, "I prayed something like this, 'Lord, he is out of my orbit; please take care of him and bring him back safely.' I just knew he was in the hands of God and I thought optimistically." So speaks the simple optimism of a warm human heart.

That's what that cab

REV. BRINKER

Greet Minister at Orthodox Presbyterian

Rev. Wilson H. Rinker will begin his ministry Sunday at First Orthodox Presbyterian Church, 500 E. San Antonio Drive. A graduate of State Teachers College of East Stroudsburg, Pa., and Western Theological Seminary of Michigan, he comes to Long Beach from a successful pastorate in San Jose, where he founded Covenant Orthodox Presbyterian.

Mr. Rinker, who served in the South Pacific during World War II, moves here with his wife Dora and three sons, David, a college student working for the summer at Community Hospital, James and Timothy, high school students.

Formal installation will be Friday, 7:30 p.m. at the church, with Rev. Ralph Clough of Manhattan Beach Orthodox Presbyterian speaking. A reception for the Rinkers will follow.

driver had and that's what Mrs. Borman had in that hard moment of suspense. Whatever the problem is in life, the simple principle is so profound. Do the best you can, put it in God's hands and think optimistically. And you will be as strong as any obstacle you will have to face.

GOINGS ON

Recording artist Gloria Roe, recognized as one of the leading composers and arrangers of sacred music, who has appeared at White House prayer meetings, youth rallies, and whose recordings have received top trade publication honors, will offer a sacred concert Sunday, 7:30 p.m. at El Dorado Park Community, 3655 Norwalk Blvd. . . . The Rev. Philip Luttrell Family, Disney Family Band Contest winners who have been on TV, and bring their missionary background in Japan into their work with chalk drawings, will appear Sunday, 7 p.m. in St. Timothy Lutheran, 5840 Arbor Road, Lakewood, following a 5:30 potluck on the church grounds to which everyone is also invited. . . . Grant Chapel A.M.E., 1129 Alamitos Ave., will present a "Musical Extravaganza" Sunday at 4 p.m. featuring the Perry Chorale of Los Angeles, Long Beach's famed Voices of Jerusalem, the Singing Smith Sisters with Rev. L. C. Smith of New Hope Baptist, also soul singer Pelstine Hargrove and MC Levi Howard.

Rev. and Mrs. John Hall, long time missionaries to West Africa, (he's a former pastor of the church) will speak and show slides of their work Sunday, 6 p.m. in Assembly of God of Compton, 4101 E. Alondra Blvd. . . . The Blackwood Brothers, noted gospel singers, will appear tonight, 7:30 in Melodyland Christian Center, Anaheim, with tickets available at the door. . . . Evangelist Phil Shuler will preach the 10:50 a.m. and 7 p.m. services as guest at Central Baptist of Orange County, 227 N. Magnolia Ave., Anaheim.

FARR FAMILY IN CONCERT

Called America's youngest recording family of singers and instrumentalists, the Farr Family, on their third tour of the U.S., will present its varied concert Sunday, 7:30 p.m. in Church of the Brethren, 3332 Magnolia Ave. The group from Palmyra, Pa. Church of the Brethren has played twice for President Nixon, who lauded them, recently appeared in concert at Disneyland, have gotten top reviews on the TV appearances. They combine vaudeville, pop, classical, show tunes and sacred music in a variety show. A free will offering will be taken.

"WHAT TO DO WITH YOUR GUILT"

Last Sunday Pastor Gilliland talked on this subject and helped us to understand that all guilt feelings are not valid, and are not of the Lord.

He brought Good News to us in telling us that we need not live under the guilt of: . . . another person's light, . . . another person's judgment, . . . not being like someone else, . . . memories of a forgiven past.

This Sunday's Good News in the 9:45 and 11:00 A.M. Services will tell us what to do when guilt feelings are real and valid.

SUNDAY AT SIX (p.m.)

We present Youth Music and Youth reports on an unusually successful Summer Youth Offensive.

Speaking will be Mr. David Baker, former All-American Quarterback from University of Oklahoma, and All-Pro Safety with the San Francisco Forty Niners.

Asks Nixon Envoy to Protestants Too

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The head of the United Methodist Church Council of Bishops suggests that President Nixon send a special emissary to the World Council of Churches. The President should give official recognition to Protestants the way he does the Catholics by sending an emissary to the Vatican, said Maryland Bishop John Wesley Lord.

'Compton' Study Slated

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

"Compton: The Quiet Revolution," will be aired at 7 tonight on Ch. 4, featuring a report on the largest city west of the Mississippi where blacks are in the majority and hold power.

The city of 78,000 is 60 per cent black, 25 per cent white and 15 per cent Mexican-American. It has the same problems as other urban centers — wrestling with high taxes, increased cost of services, school budgets and problems that are a natural extension of a racially mixed society.

The program, written and produced by Bob Lucas, is narrated by KNBC reporter Warren Wilson who conducts interviews with Mayor Douglas Dolarhede, James Johnson, the only black city manager in California, City Clerk Doris Davis and City Attorney Clarence Blair.

STUDENTS of James Joyce may be interested in looking in on Ch. 28 at 7 tonight, when the Abbey Players perform a dramatization of five short stories by the Irish writer.

The dramatization was adapted by Irish playwright Hugh Leonard from Joyce's "Dubliners." A program note may be of help to those who have struggled with such test questions as, Is there some method in the arrangement of the stories? Explicate.

"My intention," wrote Joyce, "was to write a chapter of the moral history of my country, and I chose Dublin for the scene because the city seems to me the center of paralysis. I have tried to present it to the indifferent public under four of its aspects — childhood, adolescence, maturity and public life." Childhood is represented in "An Encounter"; adolescence, "Two Gallants"; maturity, "Counterparts"; and public life in "Ivy Day in the Committee Room" and "Grace."

RADIO NOTES: "Newport Jazz Festival," a three hour special will be aired starting at 4 p.m. on KNXT (640 AM).

Featured will be Louis Armstrong, Mahalia Jackson, Dizzy Gillespie, Bob Hackett, Wild Bill Davidson, Clark Terry and Ray Nance among others.

THE CLEVELAND Orchestra, George Szell conducting, will be added to the KFAC (1330 AM, 92.3 FM) scheduled from 6 to 8 p.m., Sundays.

This brings to four the number of weekend classical music programs on the stations. Others are: Saturdays, Boston Symphony, 6 to 8 p.m.; Philadelphia Orchestra, 10:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.; Sunday, 12:30 p.m., Boston Pops.

CBS to Present

Mormon Choir

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — The famed Mormon Tabernacle Choir will present its traditional CBS nationwide broadcast from the Carolina Coliseum Sunday.

The 375-voice ensemble is also scheduled to present a public concert at the Coliseum later in the day. The group is coming to the state as part of the South Carolina tricentennial.

The choir has made more than 25 record albums and has won a "Grammy" from the recording industry for its version of "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Leave It To Larry

By LARRY MEDER
HARBOR CHEVROLET

There was absolute silence in the courtroom as the Judge adjusted his glasses to peer down at the pitiful sight before him — a young slip of a girl of 17 who'd been charged with attending a party where marijuana was being smoked.

He reminded her of the gravity of the offense, dwelled on the fact that she came from fine parents, then asked if she had anything to say on her own behalf before he passed sentence.

Breaking down completely, she blubbered, "Your Honor — If I'd gone to the movies with Mom and Dad that night — all this would've never happened!"

The good Judge's voice, softening perceptibly, asked her to enlarge on this bizarre explanation. So she added, "Well, your Honor — the manager of the theatre wouldn't let me in — 'cuz the feature being shown was rated 'X'."

A LITTLE SAND AND GLEE

Trevino Tames British Winds, Leads by Two

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI) — Talkative Lee Trevino, oblivious to gusty winds which bothered his rivals, fired an even par 72 Friday to boost his lead to two strokes in the third round of the British Open golf championship.

The 30-year-old Mexican-American from El Paso played steady golf over the wind-swept 6,951 yard old course and his 72 gave him a 54-hole total of 208, eight under par and two strokes ahead of defending champion Tony Jacklin of Britain and fellow American pros Doug Sanders and Jack Nicklaus.

Trevino, who said he is accustomed to playing in wind, entered the third round with a one-stroke edge over Jacklin and Nicklaus.

Trevino conquered his nerves at the 16th when a dog started barking as he prepared to putt.

"I missed that putt and I could have got my hands on that little dog he would have gone home with my putter in his head," said Trevino.

Sanders, the 36-year-old Georgian who now lives in Houston, had a third-round 17, one of the few sub-par rounds recorded Friday, to move into a three-way tie with Nicklaus and Jacklin for the runnerup spot. Nicklaus and Jacklin both recorded 73s. All three stood at 210.

First-round leader Neil Coles, who shot a record 65 Wednesday, was tied at 211 with 22-year-old Englishman Peter Oosterhuis. Coles shot a 72 and Oosterhuis a 69, joint best round of the day with Scotsman Ronnie Shade who is now even par at 216.

Behind them came South African Harold Henning at 212. Henning had a 73 Friday which was spoiled by three bogies on the back nine, including dropped strokes on 17 and 18.

Although predicted rain held off, a gusty cross wind which at times exceeded 25 miles gave the golfers plenty of problems. All the leading men agreed conditions were the most difficult of the tournament to date.

Trevino's earlier rounds included a pair of 68s. Trevino and Jacklin toured the historic old course in partnership followed by a huge gallery. Both started and ended with birdie threes but there was a lot of tough country in between and they had to work hard for their scores.

Jacklin bogied the second to go two strokes down but Trevino bogied the next hole. The American hit back with a birdie at the fifth only to drop the stroke at the short eighth. Jacklin bogied the 13th and Trevino the 16th on the home trek.

Nicklaus had an up-and-down round which included five bogies — three of them in a row after the turn.

Sanders was one over for the front nine but three birdies against a bogey five allowed him to improve his position.

Arnold Palmer and Dave Marr were bracketed at 216. Palmer soared to a 76 after earlier rounds of 68 and 72 and Marr had a 74.

Messersmith Night at Big A: 13 KOs, 2-1 Win

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

Andy Messersmith's number came up Friday night at the Big A.

It was 13, and the Angels were in luck.

Messersmith, shaking off the adverse effects of a virus and the mental depression of having won only two of his previous 10 starts, was the complete master Friday, and to the 22,106 assembled witnesses it brought back visions of 1969 when he was unmistakably the premier right-hander in baseball.

Dandy Andy struck out 13 Minnesota Twins — a career high — and the Angels hung on for a 2-1 victory.

It was only the 10th of July but it was one of those "must" affairs for the Angels. Another loss would have sent them skidding seven games off the pace. Instead they are only five games back today, and optimism springs eternal in the mind of Lefty Phillips, now comforted in the knowledge that the real Messersmith is alive and well in Anaheim.

ANGEL OF DAY

ANDY MESSERSMITH struck out career high of 13 in 2-1 triumph over Minnesota.

"I have never seen Andy give a better effort," the manager said unabashedly, "considering the importance of the game and the quality of the opposition. It was his finest hour."

One month ago, Messersmith stood in front of his locker in Detroit's Tiger Stadium after a seven-hit, 5-2 victory over the Tigers. He had struck out only one man and the question was why.

"I am changing my delivery," he answered. "I have been striking out people but it hasn't been doing me any good. I'm going to forget all about strikeouts."

He remembered in a hurry Friday night.

"Andy was a troubled pitcher at the time," Phillips explained. "His arm was hurting and so was his pride. He is a power pitcher first, last and always and when he is on his game he is going to strike out a lot of hitters."

Messersmith, doubtless, was on his game against the juggernaut from the Twin Cities.

"I have to admit that is the best I've pitched this year," Messersmith said. "No, I didn't feel the pressure of an important game. Every game I pitch is the most important game of my life."

The Twins got six hits and Messersmith should have owned a shutout. But there was a mixup between outfielders Jarvis Tatum and Billy Cowan in the first inning and Harmon Killebrew's routine fly fell in for a run-scoring double instead of being the third out of the inning.

All the laudatory remarks were not reserved for Messersmith. Several were aimed directly at the shortstop, Jim Fregosi.

"He should be the starting All-Star shortstop," Messersmith claimed. "He is always there when you need him."

The Angels needed him in the first inning after a single by Jarvis Tatum and Fregosi appeared to deliver a two-run homer over the centerfield boards. It got the Angels into front and Messersmith saw to it that they stayed there.

It was No. 15 for Fregosi and his RBI total reached 47, catching his output for all of last season.

"I'm swinging differently for the first time in four years," the new slugger of the Angels confessed. "I'm hitting through the ball and I can tell because the muscles in my shoulder are sore from the follow-through. But I think I can stand the pain."

The loser was Jim Kaat and that was not unusual. The Angels have beaten Kaat 16 times in his career — more than any other active pitcher.

Surgery for Billie Jean

CRYSTAL BAY, Nev. (UPI) — Tennis star Billie Jean King said Friday she will undergo a knee operation next week that will place her tennis future in jeopardy.

"The only way I may ever play again properly is to have it operated on. It's getting worse and worse. It's bothering me in everyday life," said the 26-year-old three-time winner of the Wimbledon tournament.

Mrs. King said she probably won't play at all until January and then it will be a question of whether her knee will be able to hold up under tournament level competition again.

"Until I get back on my feet, I won't have any idea if I will be able to make it," she said. "It's a very sensitive operation I won't know anything until at least six months."

She returned from the Wimbledon tournament in England last week after losing a record-breaking match to Margaret Court of Australia.

She complained about knee cramps at the match, and went to her doctor in Long Beach, Calif., this week.

"I've been through this before," she said, referring to her left knee operation two years ago. The operation will be on her right knee.

By GORDON VERRELL

SAN DIEGO — Bill Singer wasn't serious when he warned his Dodger teammates before Friday night's game that he needed at least nine runs.

"But I guess they took me serious," blushed Bullet Bill after he survived a harrowing ninth inning, one in which San Diego bashed four home runs, to bag the plucky Padres, 9-7, before 18,888 San Diego Stadium fans.

"The Dodgers go to any extremes to bring back the fans," snickered Bill Grabarkewitz, the shortstop, adding, "but I have to admit, I almost had to get some aspirin 'cause I was getting so dizzy watching those guys run past me."

The Dodgers had built up a 9-2 advantage entering the ninth and Singer appeared certain of his second consecutive complete game.

But Ivan Murnell and Tommy Dean homered back-to-back with one out, then with two out Dave Campbell slugged the third home run of the round.

When Singer walked Steve Huntz, manager Walter Alston called in Jose Pena, but it was hardly the answer. Clarence Gaston greeted Pena with his 15th homer, and when Pena nailed Al Ferrera with a pitch it brought Nate Colbert to the plate as the tying run.

But Pena whiffed Colbert to preserve the win, the Dodgers' 14th in their last 17 games.

"We've been having a lot of strange ones lately," Alston said afterward, still able to crack a smile, "but

DODGER OF DAY

WES PARKER raised average to .300 with triple and two doubles and drove in three runs as Dodgers outlasted Padres, 9-7.

If we hadn't had that big lead we'd sure have been in a fix."

The big lead was triggered by Wes Parker, who continued his sizzling streak with a triple, two more doubles and three RBIs.

Wes, his average now at an even .300, has 16 hits in 31 at bats on the trip, and prompted the manager to remark:

"I've never seen anyone on a streak like he's been on. Between Parker and Willie Davis and Jim LeFebvre, well, they've played a big part in our success on this trip."

It's now eight wins in the last nine games for the Dodgers and Friday they managed to inch closer to Cincinnati in the National League's Western Division. It's an eight-game deficit this morning and, best of all, there's encouragement.

"Sure, we're not gaining on Cincinnati that fast," Alston said, "but they're not shaking us either. This club is really playing ball now and, frankly, I'm more pleased with the way we're going than any club I've had."

"And don't forget Bill Grabarkewitz. Grabby hasn't fallen off a bit. He started off two of our rallies tonight."

Grabby, sparked a two-run flurry in the fourth inning with a singlet that included a double by Parker and a single by Davis. After the Padres tied the game with two in the fifth, Grabarkewitz singled in the sixth to launch a three-run rally. The Dodgers got two more in the eighth and another two in the ninth, the latter rally started with a single by Singer.

The 9-2 advantage seemed safe enough until the Padres slugged their way into the record book with their four ninth-inning homers, only the 12th club to hit as many as four home runs in an inning. Three teams have done it five times and the Pads

BAFFLE CHOICE IN TODAY'S $162,000 GOLD CUP

The scene is set for the 31st running of the $162,000 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap at Hollywood Park today and Baffle, a proven speed horse is the probable favorite.

Owned by Canadian Frank McMahon, the 5-year-old Baffle is the high weight at 124 pounds in the field of eight. Whether he can carry it the classic 1 1/4 mile, a distance he has never tried before, remains to be answered. The farthest he's gone is 1 1/8 miles.

The 1970 Gold Cup lacks the high class of previous years but a turnout of 50,000 is in prospect. Victory to the winning stable will be worth a guaranteed $102,100.

Baffle is trained by former jockey Johnny Longden, who hopes some of his success rubs off on the horse. Longden won the Gold Cup four times. Jerry Lambert has the ride on Baffle.

Clement L. Hirsch's 5-year-old Argentine Figonero, 121, figures to be the second betting choice and would be even more highly regarded had he run back to his 1969 summer form.

This year Figonero has won one minor stakes and placed second and third in two other races. Last year he won three big ones in the space of 15 days, including the Gold Cup. Alvarado Pineda will be aboard.

The third public fancy may be Pleasure Seeker, 114. His chief asset will be his pilot, Laffitt Pincay Jr., the leading rider of the meeting. The 4-year-old was runner-up to Baffle in the Inglewood Handicap at 1 1/8, losing by a neck.

Rider Bill Shoemaker, who rode successive Gold

Cup winners in 1956-57-58 and none since, will try an outsider, T.V. Commercial, 112. T.V. is primarily a grass runner and hardly in the class of Shoemaker's Gold Cup champions, Swaps, Round Table and Gallant Man.

Others entered are Neurologo, Makor, Fairfleet II and Rock Burner. The latter two have not won anything in two years but Rock Burner had one dis-tion: his sire, Hillsdale, won the Gold Cup in 1959.

Exacta wagering will be held on the Gold Cup. The $5 bettors must select the horses who will finish 1-2 in the race.

Harry Cohen, with Wayne Harris aboard, won the $12,000 Bowlers Victory Legion Purse at Hollywood Park Friday. The winner paid $7.40, $2.60 and $2.80.

Spitz' Santa Clara Streak Ends

SANTA CLARA (Special) — Friday was a day in which Mark Spitz was second, a feat which gave him something in common with a quintet of Lakewood-Long Beach swimmers.

University of Tennessee star Dave Edgar handed Spitz his first defeat in the four-year history of the Santa Clara Invitational swim meet Friday when he rallied in the final 10 yards to win the 100-meter freestyle.

Edgar, who also beat Spitz, a native of Santa Clara who attends Indiana University, in this year's NCAA championships, won the opening event Friday in 53.63 with Spitz (54.03) second.

Gary Hall and Gunnar Larsson of Long Beach's Phillips 66 swim team and Susie Atwood, Ann Simmons and Kimla Brecht of the Lakewood Aquatic Club also earned Avis awards.

Susie finished second to Barby Darby of Palo Alto in the 200 backstroke; Miss Simmons was runner-up to Sacramento's Debbie Meyer in the 400 freestyle, and Miss Brecht trailed Claudia Clevenger in the 200 breaststroke.

Kinsella, a standout in the AAU short course championships last April, covered the 400 meters in 4:08.09, establishing Friday's lone meet record.

West German Olympian Hans Fassnacht of Phillips 66 and Cal State Long Beach, the world record holder in the 400 freestyle, was fourth, nearly three seconds behind Kinsella.

The Avis trophy also went to Mexico's Olympic gold medal winner Felipe Munoz, who was runnerup to Santa Clara's Brian Job in the 200 breaststroke.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Ron Hunt lashed four consecutive hits to drive in two runs, set up two and score another to lead the San Francisco Giants to an 8-5 victory over the Houston Astros Friday night.

Hunt delivered a two-out single with the bases loaded in the fifth to drive in the Giants' fifth and sixth runs. Jim Ray Hart and Frank Johnson started the decisive inning with singles. Frank Reberger, the winning pitcher, beat out a bunt to load the bases and set the stage for Hunt.

Star victory. His squad won the second game 9-4 in 1962, when two contests were played.

Bradshaw underwent surgery a month ago for removal of a calcium deposit in his right leg.

MICHEL Briere of the Pittsburgh Penguins can now squeeze his fiancée's hand and swallow food "as a reflex action," but is still considered medically unconscious, 55 days after he sustained brain injury in an auto accident.

KATHY Harter of Seal Beach beat Anna Maria Arias of Argentina, 6-3, 6-4, to gain the semifinals of the Baastad, Sweden, tennis tournament. Peaches Bartkowicz of the U.S. also advanced.

VALERIE Ziegensuss of San Diego gave the U.S. a finalist in the women's singles of the Irish Open tennis event, but Marty Riesen lost his bid to reach the title round. Miss Ziegensuss defeated Karen Kratzke of Australia, 6-3, 6-4.

KEN Rosewall and John Newcombe will meet in a replay of the Wimbledon final today in Newport, Wales. Patti Hogan of La Jolla was ousted in the women's finals, 6-0, 8-6, by Australia's Evonne Goolagong.

Von Ruden Sets 1,000 Record

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. — After rechecking with meet officials, city recreation director Walt Little said Friday that Tom Von Ruden ran 1,000 yards in world record time in an all-comers meet Thursday night.

Von Ruden, former Oklahoma State star now running for the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach, was timed in 2 minutes, 6.2 seconds over the 1,000-yard race.

Track and Field News listed the previous best world time for the 1,000 yards as 2:06.8 by Wade Bell of Oregon in 1967.

Santo, Jenkins Key Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Santo's run-scoring double keyed a two-run second inning and Ferguson Jenkins blanked Philadelphia on five hits Friday to give the Chicago Cubs a 2-0 victory over the Phillies.

Jenkins, 10-10, bested Grant Jackson, 1-8, in the rapid-fire pitching duel.

Jim Hickman led off the Cubs' second with a single and scored on Santo's double to centerfield. Santo then advanced to third on Cleo James' sacrifice bunt and scored on a single by John Callison.

Yaz, Peters Lead Bosox Over Chisox

CLEVELAND (AP) Carl Yastrzemski drove in two runs with a homer and a single and Gary Peters scattered seven hits as the Boston Red Sox hammered the Cleveland Indians 7-1 Friday night.

The Red Sox jumped on loser Rich Hand in the first inning with run-scoring singles by Rico Petrocelli and George Scott and Yastrzemski added his 21st homer in the third.

Boston wrapped it up with four runs in the seventh against reliever Dennis Higgins with the aid of two errors, a walk and a bunt single by Peters.

These Homes for Active Adults

When S & S construction announced its community of Parkwood-Los Alamitos, it launched a new trend on two major fronts.

First, the company which had produced more than 14,000 homes for families with children branched out into a new community especially designed for active adults. This entailed enclosing 103 homes and a $250,000 adult activity center all in a privately walled, planned community.

In addition, S & S planned this community in light of one of the current social trends.

"We realized most active adults would rather spend their energies on activities they enjoy rather than yard work," commented Emil Tessin, president of S & S.

This led to the planning of a community which lets homeowners limit their concern to one large patio-entertainment area, as shown in the models, with practically no maintenance.

"After all, we have acres of landscaped grounds just a few steps from their door . . . so they can enjoy the easy, carefree life of Parkwood," Tessin continued.

PARKEWOOD WILL HAVE 3 acres of landscaped grounds. Residents will be able to walk to the recreational complex through landscaped greenbelts and squares, never crossing a street, and these grounds and the recreational complex will be maintained by the Homeowner's Association.

Priced from $27,490, Parkwood offers an exciting, innovative selection of one and two-story homes ranging from two to five bedrooms.

In addition to genuine lath and plaster used in the construction of every wall and ceiling, the homes at Parkwood offer a commanding array of custom home features.

This entire complex, including the adult activity center, is open to the public each day from 10 a.m. to sunset.

Parkwood is on Lampson Avenue, between Los Alamitos Boulevard and Valley View in Los Alamitos.

Two Prize Catches: the Home--and the Fish

Shawn, with a prize catch, going past one of the California Homes models, shares his enthusiasm for the ocean with the seven other Garcias.

According to Mrs. Oscar Garcia, the family moved to Capistrano Beach when Garcia and two of his children developed asthma from allergies to the smog and citrus pollens in Azusa, their former home.

The family has had no further problem with the allergies since moving to the area, the mother said.

The California Homes series in Capistrano Beach offers families the opportunity to live within three blocks of the beach for as little as $23,995.

The homes are located on Calle Juanita, near the San Diego freeway exit for that street.

Fidelity Federal Savings Third-of-a-Century Old

Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan Association is celebrating its "Third of a Century" birthday, acknowledging its founding in 1937 and its growth to the position as one of the 20 largest savings and loan associations in the nation, according to R. M. Riggle, vice president and manager of the Long Beach office.

Special open house ceremonies have been held at each of the association's eight offices with birthday cake, soft drinks and a souvenir gift for all visitors.

Fidelity Federal Savings now serves more than 100,000 persons, reflecting more than $350 million in savings. The firm serves Southern California with offices in Glendale, Fullerton, Long Beach, San Pedro, Santa Ana-Orange, Sherman Oaks, Stanton-Garden Grove and Van Nuys.

In addition to regular savings programs paying from 5 to 7 per cent per year, compounded daily, the association recently introduced a Special Purpose Passbook account to meet any specific savings goal.

With the Special Purpose Passbook, you can have a separate account for each of the important things for which you're saving.

Ten special purposes for saving, including College Fund, Retirement, Travel Account and Taxes are specifically named and an additional passbook permits you to give your own special name to the account.

Other services offered by Fidelity Federal as extra benefits to savers are safe deposit boxes, collections of trust deeds or notes and a regular income-producing savings program, Money-Card, which provides the savings account holder with a regular, guaranteed monthly income for a pre-determined number of years.

EXCLUSIVE RESORT LIVING

Treasure Island Lots on Sale at Canyon Lake

The ultimate in luxury and exclusive private resort living is offered in the sale of 27 condominium lots on Canyon Lake's four-acre Treasure Island, destined to become the Bel-Air of Riverside County.

With mainland property rapidly being sold off, W. Gordon Heath, president of Corona Land Company, is developing the island for the discriminating buyer, who wants his privacy in the seclusion and tropical atmosphere of island living.

Every Treasure Island homesite is oriented to Canyon Lake's watersports environment, and some of them will accommodate a two-story structure without obstructing the lovely lake view.

To maximize side yards and open space, the concept of the zero lot line will be employed, providing joint use of yard space by island property owners.

"LOTS on the island, which will be linked to the mainland by a bridge, will sell from $9,000 to $22,000," said Heath.

Homes will be individually designed by each owner's architect under guidelines set by the Canyon Lake Architectural Committee, which provides that homes meet the standards conducive to the ecological and environmental requirements of the $45 million private family recreational development.

When fully developed, the bridge and the circular drive around the island will be owned in common by the island's property owners, Heath said.

"ISLAND living is a fascinating concept," Heath said, "and the sites offered here are some of the choicest in the entire Canyon Lake community."

Heath cautioned however, that the 27 Treasure Island lots would prove to be as popular as the 26 exclusive Canyon Lake Villas, which were sold out only a month after the first furnished model was completed.

These villas, built in clusters of two and three around a beautifully landscaped common area, were one, two-and three-bedroom homes priced

Industry, People Find Signal Hill Place of Future

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

Lift up your eyes to Signal Hill.

If you don't, you may miss one of the swiftest, most carefully planned transformations of any land mass in the Southland to date.

The sleeping hill, busy since the 1920s disgorging its tremendous wealth of oil, has awakened.

This decade could see Signal Hill move from a city of 8,000 people with 50 per cent of its land vacant to a master-planned community of 25,000 citizens and 2,000 bustling industries.

This could be — and it is seriously anticipated.

That the city's officials are aware of the awakening is readily apparent in the most recent Capital Improvement Budget volume. It details, for the next five years, a master plan for steady municipal improvements that will run ahead — not behind — the expected growth.

Dominant Landmark

As a major land form, Signal Hill is singularly identifiable as it rises above the gently sloping Los Angeles-Long Beach basin and retains the position of being the dominant physical landmark in this coastal region.

Because of its location, surrounded on all sides by urban development, Signal Hill "could become a major urban center, one of the significant visual and physical points of orientation in Southern California," says Quinton-Budlong, Los Angeles research-planning organization giving its views of the city's future.

Signal Hill opened an eye and stirred slightly in the late 1950s as oil production decreased and residents exerted pressure. City officials successfully induced oil companies to remove the high density of oil derricks.

But the city's thinkers, watching subsequent construction of broadcast antennae and water towers, foresaw a hodge-podge of undefined land usage unless definite steps were taken — quickly.

Surrounding urban sprawl, a nondifferentiated sea of roofs, TV antennae and roadways, could "wash over the hill . . . irrespective of its unique topographic form and view characteristics," Quinton-Budlong warned.

Strong New Image

Thus, Signal Hill leaders began a concentrated series of huddles. Purpose: to plan for a strong new image for Signal Hill, one that will lead to commercial enterprises, hotels and motels, office-professional concerns — and a larger populace.

The urban design Signal Hill officials envision calls for development that will maximize the natural qualities of slope and view, reinforce the hill's position and generate community interaction, yet hold privacy at the highest priority for every resident.

In this year's budget message from Ronald Prince, administrative officer, it is obvious the planning in Signal Hill is not for this fiscal year alone, or the next, but for many.

"It is imperative the city's major public works program be geared to meet the challenge with appropriate planning," Prince said.

"The city's successful commercial and industrial promotion program of the past year will enable the city to accelerate the development of many programs," Prince added.

"Developments such as the Gemco Department Store, the 13 buildings in the Signal Hill Industrial Center-East which will bring approximately 20 new industries to our community; the addition of A-1 Electric, Mack Truck and the city's first bank all will make significant contributions to both the sales and property tax of the city.

Careful Trodding

Reviewing the city's careful trodding of its growth path is interesting reading, giving insight to just how a "City of Tomorrow" comes about through planning:

Nov. 13, 1962 — Planning Commission members approved in principle a comprehensive master plan, drafted by Eisner-Stewart & Associates, South Pasadena. Included in the plan are suggestions for a downtown area, new schools, parks and industrial sites.

Jan. 8, 1964 — City councilmen agreed on a master plan zoning ordinance and ordered final drafting.

Jan. 22, 1964 — Councilmen ordered a joint study session with City Planning Commission to discuss unsettled differences on a master plan.

Feb. 6, 1964 — A special meeting of the council was called to set date for public hearing on the now-agreed-upon master plan zoning ordinance.

March 18, 1964 — The zoning ordinance passed first reading, culminating two years' debate.

March 25, 1964 —Independent, Press-Telegram editorializes: "Those envisioning big things in the way of high-rise and other development in the Long Beach area are now raising their sights to include Signal Hill. If dreams materialize, and we believe they can, Signal Hill will some day stand like a jewel on the coastal plain."

May 7, 1964 — New zoning ordinance becomes effective.

Nov. 18, 1968 — The city administrator is developing a five-year-plan for continuing the conversion of the city from oil town to diversified community.

April 2, 1969 — City Council orders Development Research Associates, Los Angeles, to make study of high-rise buildings "on the hill."

May 21, 1969 — Five-year capital improvement budget of $5.3 million is approved by councilmen.

Feb. 9, 1970 — Signal Hill launches $100 million community improvement project, announcing $26 million in new commercial and industrial development will occur this year.

Chevrolet Sales 'Skyrocketing'

This week's Index fell 0.2 per cent. Seven of the eight Index components have fallen at least 1.0 per cent below the year ago levels.

Steel output gained 2.3 per cent in the current week, but most steelmakers agree that production is headed for future decline, due to slowing export demand.

Auto production went up 0.8 per cent. While some auto makers are slowing '70 car production down, General Motor's Chevrolet division instituted overtime schedules in many plants in order to keep pace with skyrock-

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Are Used Car Warranties Needed?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Once when I was a mere lad my wise old father drew me upon his knee, patted my tousled head and spake unto me thusly:

"Son, as you slog along through the quicksands of life you will oftentimes be disillusioned. But remember there are three things you can always believe in."

ANNUAL BOSS NIGHT

American Business Women's Association, Long Beach Harbor Lights Charter Chapter, has held its annual Boss Night program. Boss of the Year award went to L. A. Anderson of A. Used Cars. Kathryn Anderson (no relation, at left), was named Woman of the Year. Mary Kathleen Ramsden, UCLA junior, was announced chapter's scholarship winner.

Prudential Commits Dollars to Mobilehome Park Sites

The Prudential Insurance Company of America has committed an additional $10 million to its investment in the mobile home park business.

American Mobilehome Corporation, in a joint venture with PIC Realty Corporation, Prudential's wholly owned subsidiary, is involved in the development and operation of 20 mobile home parks in the western states representing an investment of $20 million.

The additional commitment to the joint venture will bring Prudential's investment to $30 million. New mobile home parks to be established are expected to be outside the western states.

THE announcement was made jointly by Hubert A. Temple, AMC president, and Frederick A. Schnell, senior vice president in charge of western operations for Prudential.

The new commitment will provide for AMC parks to be built at Toms River and Williamstown, N.J.; Adrian and Niles, Mich.; Toledo, Ohio; Chantilly, Va.; Frederick, Maryland; Laurenceville, Ga.; Manchester, N.Y.; Arlington, Texas and other areas where there is a serious housing shortage, Temple said.

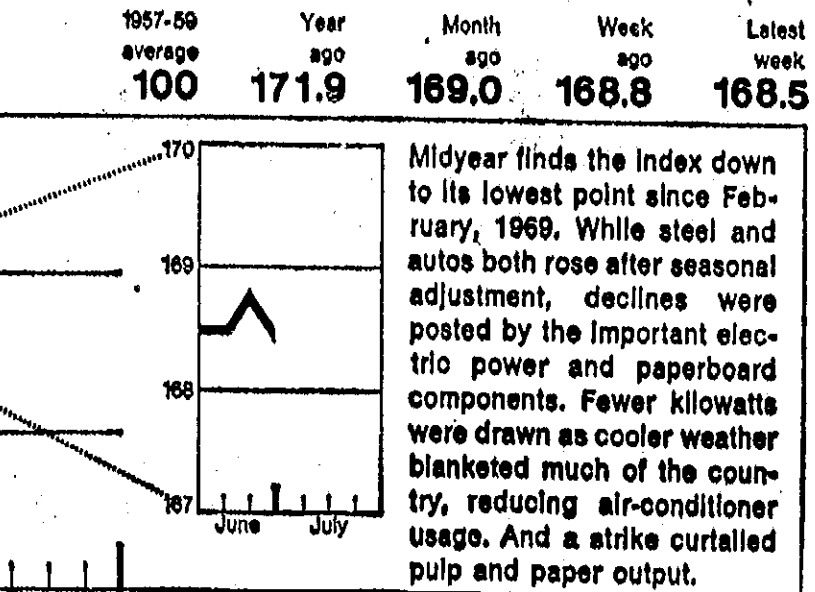

HE-SAID AMC now has mobile home parks either in operation or under construction in 23 states. It has regional offices in Bellevue, Wash.; Burlingame, Fullerton, Phoenix, Gorham, Maine; Denver, Dallas, Ann Arbor, Indianapolis, Rochester, Alexandria, Marietta, Ga., and York, Pa.

The mobile home park development field has seen broad expansion within the past year, according to company executives.

Lower cost of mobile home living, with added recreational facilities, has

Swift And Sure

It was the above announcement, that came with a preview of hilltop development plans, that emphasized Signal Hill's plan to raise the city's assessed valuation eting Chevrolet sales.

Crude oil refinery runs dropped 2.3 per cent, while electric power output lost 4.5 per cent.

Miscellaneous carloadings rose 0.4 per cent, due partly to a gain in non-metallic minerals; all other carloadings increased 0.9 per cent, showing a hike in grain transport. Inter-city truck tonnage, still weak after months of teamster disputes, rose 2.6 per cent — a 20.5 per cent loss compared to a year ago.

Paperboard production fell 1.1 per cent.

The eternal trio that he then set forth as worthy of my credence consisted of:

—The solvency of the railroads.

—The reliability of political polls particularly as they pertain to British elections.

—The honesty and forthrightness of used car warranties.

Until recently it never crossed my mind that I would ever have occasion to question my wise old father's admonition. But now I must sadly conclude that he might have misled me on one of those points:

FOR THERE currently is pending in the U.S. Senate a bill to set federal standards of clarity and accuracy for product warranties including, I assume, used cars.

And it stands to reason that Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., wouldn't have introduced this measure unless it were needed.

(As I was telling my own son the other day unnecessary legislation is never introduced in the U.S. senate—you can depend on that.)

I am concerned, however, that in his zeal to protect consumers from unfair and ambiguous warranties McIntyre may be imposing impossible requirements on the warrantors.

One section of his bill would require that a warranty "be expressed in simple and readily understandable terms."

BUT another section of the bill would require that a warranty "state in detail the terms and conditions of the warranty."

That appears to set up an irresolvable conflict.

There is no way that the details of a warranty can be made simple and readily understandable.

A more helpful step, in my judgment, would be a requirement that warrantors omit the details entirely. All that we consumers are interested in is the upshot, or actual meaning, of the warranty.

In the standard used car warranty, for example, the from its present $32 million to $100 million.

Now, less than six months later, ground has been broken for a $2.5 million industrial park on nearly 13 acres at Hill Street and Redondo Avenue.

Master plans have been completed for a $20 million, 68-acre Signal Hill Industrial Park, under development by Shell Oil near Willow Street and Temple Avenue.

Home Bank is moving its headquarters from Compton to a $1.5 million modern building on Cherry Avenue north of Willow.

As said at the beginning of this column, lift up your eyes to Signal Hill.

Progress is being made — swiftly. You may miss the transformation.

Wrather Corp. Buys Andersen's

Wrather Corporation (AMEX) has acquired the nationwide rights to most of the trademarks, recipes and private label merchandise sold at the famous Pea Soup Andersen's Restaurant in Buellton, and has been granted the exclusive right to build and operate restaurants bearing this name.

Announcement of the agreement was made by Jack Wrather, president and chairman of the board of Wrather Corporation, Beverly Hills, and Vincent B. Evans, president of Pea Soup Andersen's-Buellton.

Wrather intends to develop Andersen's soup and sandwich outlets in regional shopping centers and downtown office areas.

This activity will be directed by the Lone Ranger Food Systems, Inc., a subsidiary of Wrather Corporation.

ALSO PROJECTED is the construction of a Danish village on Wrather's Disneyland Hotel property in Anaheim, which would include a restaurant, wine cellar and shops featuring Andersen recipes and products.

There are more than 50 Andersen private label food products including coffee, tea, jams, nuts, cheese, wine, condiments and bread.

The Andersen enterprises are an outgrowth of a modest roadside cafe started in 1924 at Buellton, 150 miles north of Los Angeles on Highway 101.

Specializing in split pea soup, the restaurant soon became famous with travelers throughout the country. Among its early boosters were Arthur Brisbane and O. O. McIntyre, nationally syndicated writers who stopped at Andersen's en route to Hearst's Castle at nearby San Simeon.

ANDERSEN'S now serves more than 900,000 bowls of pea soup annually in its Buellton restaurant which averages 3,000 customers a day during peak periods.

Three tons of peas are split every year for the specialty of the house.

Acquisition of the Andersen properties widens Wrather's interests in the specialty food field.

Last year the company opened its first Lone Ranger family restaurant in Santa Monica, and now operates five units in the Los Angeles-Orange County market.

The corporation's Disneyland Hotel has one of Multiple Listings in Record

Multiple listing sales in the West Orange County area have broken all previous records according to figures released by Matt Whitehead, chairman of the multiple listing committee of the West Orange County Board of Realtors.

June totals soared to an all time high of $7,609,011, bringing the year's total to $34,868,262.

This compares with 1969 records of $5,459,881 for June and total for first six months of $32,635,544.

While listings for June are also up this year, they are down slightly from the first six months.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL . . . Is Directly Across From Landmark Homes

Landmark Children Walk to School

Landmark Homes in La Palma, one of the few new home communities in the area that have homes available for immediate occupancy, are within walking distance to every school serving the community, according to Landmark sales counselor

Carl Smith.

George B. Miller Elementary School is almost directly across the street from the Landmark Homes site on Walker Street, just south of South Street.

Walker Junior High and Kennedy High School are little more than 10 minutes' walking time from the Landmark Homes, or about a half-mile.

Landmark Homes in La Palma are complete "family-ready" homes, offering amenities that could save the homeowner as much as $2,000 in the cost to move into a new home.

The homes are located on Walker Street between La Palma and Orangethorpe avenues in the city of La Palma.

SIMILARLY, the estate-sized sites in Canyon Lake's beautiful mobile home park proved to be so popular they were quickly sold out. The 122-space park overlooks the Canyon Lake Golf Course.

"People looking for the finest in private resort living recognize the value of Canyon Lake property. The important considerations of the buyers is that they may take advantage of the recreational attractions even though they have no immediate plans to build homes," Heath said.

SIGNAL Landmark Inc., builder of Landmark Homes, has found the difference in cost to the developer who buys en masse as opposed to the homebuyer in purchasing such items as drapes, carpets, sprinklers, landscaping and fencing often amounts to $2,000.

In addition the La Palma Landmark Homes include built-in television antenna, patio kitchen with deluxe range, oven, disposal, hood fan and dishwasher, shake roofs, concrete driveways and underground utilities.

The two-story, four and five-bedroom homes also have three baths and two and three-car garages. Fireplaces are in the living rooms and each home has a separate family room.

Waiting for low home prices could be like waiting for your proverbial ship of good fortune . . . a very long wait.

Sure, new homes cost money today . . . but they'll cost even more in the future. Interest rates, building costs, prices on everything are going up . . . by a thousand or two dollars a year.

You can beat this cost-price spiral if you buy your home NOW. That way you'll be covered. Your home will rise in value as real estate prices rise. You'll build equity instead of spending money on rent. But you've got to do it soon . . . before it costs you even more.

Take a look at Saturday's PROGRESS section. It's packed with information on beautiful new homes from the area's finest builders. Pictures, features, advertisements will show you where to look and what is new in the construction industry. Do it soon . . . for relief from that cost hang-up!

Orange County Coastline Lures Home Buyers

With summer here, Orange County's prime coastline location is proving to be a magnetic lure for homebuyers.

Nearby beaches and availability of all kinds of water recreation have made veteran builder William Lyon's Huntington Beach five developments especially desirable for active families with children.

There is an excellent selection of homes available for immediate move-in.

B of A Promotes H. H. Jackson

In a move to further strengthen its new decentralization program, Bank of America has announced the promotion of Regional Vice President H. H. Jackson to top executive status.

Board Chairman Louis B. Lundborg said Jackson, who has headed the 103-branch Orange and South-eastern Los Angeles counties Regional Headquarters since its inception, will now be equivalent in rank and authority to senior vice presidents at the corporate level.

Carl Blanchard, of Downey, who rejoined L & F Machine Company, Huntington Park, last year, has been promoted to vice president - operations. He previously was with Fruehauf.

Katella Opens 6th Office

Melvin Schantz, president of Katella Realty Inc., has announced the opening of a new office at 9785 Adams Ave. in Grant Plaza.

Nucleus of the staff has been chosen from Katella Realty salesmen thoroughly acquainted with the property in the area and the current resale values.

Katella Realty was formed in 1956 in Anaheim. Attuned to the increasing demands of the new residents, Schantz has continued to expand over the years into sections showing the highest density figures.

In 1965 the fifth office of the corporation was opened on Beach Boulevard, south of Warner in Huntington Beach, just five years after the population figures of that city were 11,492 and four years before the estimated growth reached 105,560.

In January, 1969, another location was established on Brookhurst, south of McFadden.

On January 1, 1970 the combined population for the Huntington Beach-Fountain Valley area was 144,990.

Schantz moved farther south with the second office in Huntington Beach.

Boise Cascade Mobilehome Division in New Quarters

Increase in personnel to handle its rapidly expanding activities in the development of mobilehome communities is responsible for the move by Boise Cascade Mobilehome Communities, western division, to larger headquarters.

After Monday, the division will have offices covering 10,000 square feet of space at 5763 W. 96th St., Los Angeles, announced Richard J. Martens, division general manager.

The firm, formerly located in Gardena, has an option for an additional 10,000 square feet of space, which it expects to utilize.

"WITH larger facilities and additional experienced staff members, Boise Cascade will have new capabilities of handling under one roof every phase of mobilehome community development — from land acquisition, through market research, design, engineering and construction supervision — prior to the project being turned over to Boise management," Martens said.

The division has 50 staff members.

Boise Cascade expects to have completed, or have under construction, nearly 100 mobilehome communities by the end of the year.

Preview Opening Set at Hollandia

CAROL PROCTOR . . . Compares Nameplates

A preview opening while final construction work progresses at Hollandia Homes in Cerritos and an "early bird's view" of the fourth unit of Valley Park Homes in Fountain Valley will be held this weekend, according to the Harville Development Co., builders of the new planned communities.

Homebuyers at the two developments will have an opportunity to assist in the selection of color schemes, floor tile patterns, bath tiling, kitchen counter tops and other amenities during completion stages.

Valley Park Homes, located at Brookhurst Street and Hill Avenue in Fountain Valley, is a 167-home community with homes ranging in price from $29,950 to $33,500. Four new floor plans feature 17 distinctive elevations in both one and two-story models.

HOLLANDIA Homes, located on South Street between Bloomfield and Carmentia in Cerritos, is a completely new community of 51 select homes which range in price from $26,950 to $33,000. One and two-story homes are available in three different floor plans and feature eight new elevations.

First and second units at Valley Park have sold out, the third unit is selling swiftly and the fourth unit has been projected to continue the trend.

Key factor in the sales pace is Mile Square Regional Park, a major recreational center for Fountain Valley. The park is located immediately adjacent to Valley Park Homes.

The park community is situated six miles from the Pacific Ocean, near major freeway and surface arteries, and within minutes of schools, shopping centers, professional offices and all necessary service facilities.

HOLLANDIA Homes' strongest appeal is the development's strategic location on the perimeter of Los Angeles County. In this area, residents are centrally located to more and Los Angeles counties, selves of business and social activities in Orange range, oven and dishwasher.

Among features included at Valley Park and Hollandia Homes are enclosed fenced rear yards; nylon carpeting; fireplaces in some models; built-in tional terms are available ers; lifetime copper plumbing; underground utilities and wood shingle and shake roofs.

FHA, VA and conventional terms are available on the new homes.

DECORATOR - furnished models are open daily at both Harville developments. To reach Valley Park Homes in Fountain Valley, take the Santa Ana or Garden Grove freeways to Brookhurst and drive south to the models at Hill Avenue. Or, take the San Diego Freeway to Brookhurst and drive north to Valley Park Homes.

To reach Hollandia Homes in Cerritos from Long Beach, take the 605 Freeway to South Street and drive east on South Street about two miles. From Los Angeles, take the Santa Ana Freeway to Carmentia. Drive south on Carmentia to South Street, and west on South to the models.

Coventry Sales to W&L Firm

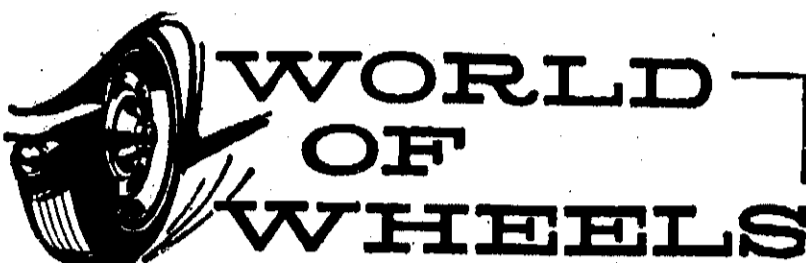

Greninger & Davis, Inc., South Pasadena building contractors, have retained Walker & Lee, Inc. to handle sales for Coventry Estates, a 33-home development in Placentia, it was announced by Jack Davis, a partner in the firm, and William

O. Thagard, senior vice president of the Anaheim-based realty firm.

Located at the intersection of Bastanchury Road and Placentia Avenue, Coventry Estates offers three models in one and two-story plans with three and four bedrooms, two and three baths, family rooms, and formal dining rooms.

Available for immediate occupancy, the homes are priced from $32,900 to $37,500. Conventional terms are available with minimum down payments and 7.9 per cent financing, according to Davis.

Ford Motor Company disclosed that it will end production of its 1970 models by late July and begin building most of its 1971 models — including the company's two new small cars, the Pinto and Mercury Comet — in August.

The company also reported that the number of hourly employees on layoff has dropped to approximately 4,800 from a high of 11,000 reached earlier this year. Ford attributed the sharply lower layoff level to higher production schedules and recall of employees to replace others who have left in normal turnover.

Ford said its 1970-71 model changeover began June 26 when the Metuchen (N.J.) Assembly Plant ended 1970 Mustang Production and started activities required to launch the new Pinto on Aug. 17. The first production Pinto will be built at Ford's St. Thomas Plant in Canada on Aug. 10. The Pinto also will be built at the San Jose Assembly Plant beginning Aug. 24.

The first Mercury Comet will be produced at the Kansas City (Mo.) Assembly Plant on Aug. 17.

New model changeover activities at most Ford assembly plants will require approximately three weeks, as has been the case in recent years. By Aug. 24 all of Ford's 15 U.S. passenger car systems will be building 1971 model passenger cars.

The Los Angeles Assembly Plant will halt production of 1970 full-size Fords and Thunderbirds on July 17. Production of the 1971 models will start August 10.

FORD DEALERS IN THE Los Angeles district set an all-time record for truck sales in June and helped Ford Division establish a similar record month in truck sales nationally.

Lee S. Grey, Ford Division's Los Angeles district sales manager, said that 4,620 trucks were sold in the district during June, an increase of 11 per cent over the previous monthly high set last June.

Nationally Ford dealers sold 69,137 units exceeding the previous June record of 65,312 units set a year ago, and the previous any-month high of 68,014 deliveries in October, 1969.

U.S. Steel Advances Frederick Brunner

Appointment of Frederick E. Brunner as superintendent-personnel services at U.S. Steel's Torrance Works was announced this week by William G. Davis, general superintendent.

Brunner, who has been assistant superintendent-personnel services at Torrance since May, 1948, joined U.S. Steel's Pittsburgh (Calif.) Works in 1940, serving in various production and industrial relations capacities until he entered the U.S. Navy in 1942.

Following his release from active duty as a fighter director officer, he was named assistant to the supervisor of industrial relations at Pittsburgh Works in 1946.

THE following year he was transferred to Torrance Works in a similar capacity.

He and his wife, Sue, live in San Dimas with their two children, Sue Virginia and Frederick Carruthers.

Brunner was born in Minneapolis and attended elementary and high school there and in La Crosse, Wis. He was graduated from the University of California-Berkeley in 1940 with an A.B. in chemistry. He received his certificate of industrial relations from UCLA in 1950.

Air Station Shutdown Spurs Buying at Tempo-Cypress

The impending close of the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station in Los Alamitos has signaled a home-buying spurt at Tempo-Cypress, The Larwin Company's planned 425 home community in Cypress.

"There's no doubt that our sales have increased dramatically in the past few weeks due to the Defense Department's announcement that the Naval Air Station will suspend operations by June 30, 1971," said Ron Carl, sales manager for the community. "The closing within a year will mean a quieter neighborhood for the home owners at Tempo-Cypress."

Tempo-Cypress has sold more than $7 million in new homes since the community opened in January, 1969. The Larwin Company now has five Tempo communities in Southern California.

SEVEN fully decorated model homes are on display at Tempo-Cypress.

The accent at Tempo is on youth, with the homes designed for young, growing families. Prices begin at $23,990, with FHA, VA, Cal Vet, and conventional terms available.

Larwin has just introduced its exclusive GPO-36 plan, which makes it possible for homeowners to actually defer paying a large portion of the monthly payment.

HOMES at Tempo are designed for families on the grow.

The community features Larwin's popular Spacemaster I and Spacemaster II models, homes to grow into rather than out of. These homes can be delivered with three and four bedrooms, respectively, with a large upstairs space left unfinished or ordered in a variety of floor plans.

The Spacemasters allow home buyers to customize their home to fit their present family needs. If there's need for more bedrooms, the Spacemaster II can be easily expanded to five or six bedrooms, with the Spacemaster I built out to include seven bedrooms.

Tempo-Cypress features such luxury items as covered entries, Garden View living rooms, Garden View kitchens with pass through patio bars, Garden View family rooms with Crystal Aire window walls, and large master bedroom suites with master baths.

Other Tempo features include custom finished kitchen cabinets, Westinghouse Continental fully automatic timed range and double oven, food disposal, custom-designed lighting fixtures and walk-in master bedroom closets.

TEMPO is close to major shopping centers, including the Rossmore Center, the Buena Park Center, and several new neighborhood centers.

Cypress Junior College is just one mile away, with California State College at Long Beach, California State College at Fullerton, and the University of California at Irvine freeway close.

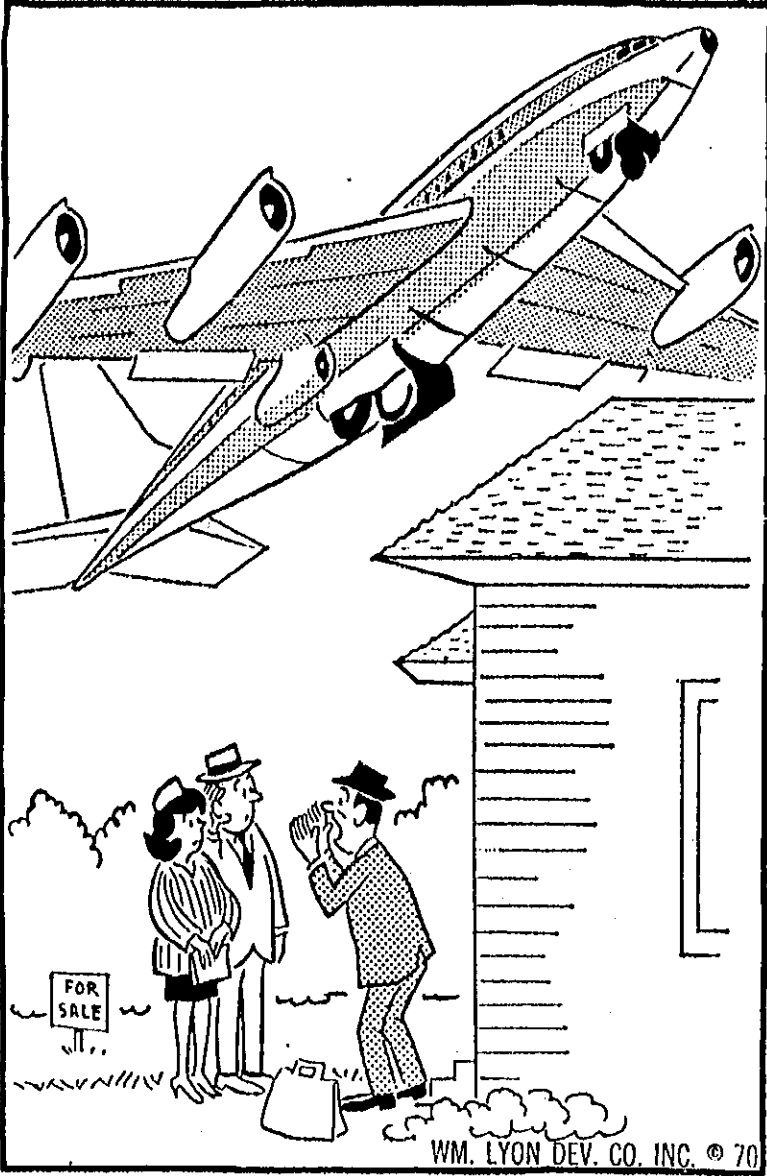

For entertainment and recreation, Tempo is within minutes of sandy beaches, Disneyland, Knotts Berry Farm, and the California Angels baseball stadium.

Tempo is near to five major freeways, and is strategically located 20 miles southeast of Los Angeles and 12 miles northeast of Long Beach.

THE Community can be reached by taking the Santa Ana Freeway or Artesia Boulevard to the Valley View exit, and then proceeding south to the models. From the San Diego and Garden Grove Freeways, take the Valley View exit and proceed north.

The Larwin Company is one of the largest housing producers in the nation, with more than 26,000 new home sales recorded in 48 separate communities since 1948. The company has recently expanded its operations into Northern California, San Diego and Chicago.

Mesa Woods 2nd Unit Models Open for Preview

Innovative designs are being introduced into the second unit of Mesa Woods in Costa Mesa and, while the newest model homes are being completed, prospective homebuyers are being invited for a preview inspection this weekend, it was announced by Jason R. Heltzer, partner in George J. Heltzer & Associates.

"Our first unit is completely sold out, far ahead of our most optimistic sales projections, but that success hasn't made us complacent," the builder said. "We have retained the best features of the first unit and have added many new ones, including new designs, to the second unit."

Buyers who act now can have the assurance of a move-in before the start of the next school year, the builder added.

ONE OF the new designs is a tri-level floor plan, expected to be a top favorite of sophisticated buyers.

"Nothing like it has ever been shown in Orange County before," Heltzer said. "It is one of the most spectacular plans we have designed during over 45 years of homebuilding in Southern California."

The tri-level, Plan 407, features a garden view kitchen with outdoor service counter and built-in desk for the homemaker. It has four bedrooms and three baths.

The master bedroom of the plan has not only a dressing room and private bath, but also a private sun deck.

OTHER plans are of three and four bedrooms. Prices from $29,950 include carpeting, back yard fencing, front yard landscaping, front yard sprinkler system, continuous-cleaning oven and automatic dishwasher among the kitchen built-ins.

Beautifully furnished model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Via San Diego Freeway, take Fairview off-ramp and go north to Sunflower, then right to sales center. Via surface streets, take Bristol or Harbor to 1101 Sunflower Avenue.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM

No Sympathy for Man Who Once 'Copped Out'

By DON CAMPBELL

Kick a man when he's down? How un-American! That's the general theory of our bankruptcy laws and, while the principle behind it is good, it is true that the whole idea has been debauched a great deal in recent years.

Despite the "modern" approach to bankruptcy, that is, a lot of Americans still retain the old, Puritanical repugnance of the man who "cops" out.

MR. CAMPBELL: I always enjoy reading your column and agree with nearly everything you say; however, I must take issue with your sympathetic attitude towards the once-bankrupt home owner.

I just can't understand people who take bankruptcy and feel that a clean record for a few years washes away the wrongs they have done to the people who trusted them and took undeserved losses that should have been taken by the bankrupt party. I know that bankruptcy is legal — but it stinks morally. It should not be condoned and encouraged.

The crybaby who wrote to you should realize that the lenders are not discriminating against him. Anyone with a perfect credit rating would have difficulty obtaining a second mortgage with as little equity as he has in his home, especially in these "tight money" times.

If he is really interested in clearing up his credit record, he should grow up and be a man by paying the creditors he cheated by taking bankruptcy.

—Mr. R. M.

ANSWER: I can't say that I blame you too much for your attitude toward bankruptcy.

The ease with which one can "take a powder" — leaving dozens of hard-working creditors up a creek without a paddle — has become somewhat of a national scandal in recent years and it's due, largely, because someone down the line has sold the debt-harassed citizen a bill of goods about the ease of the whole procedure and has, mercifully skipped over the fact that nine out of ten Americans still consider the one-time bankrupt a walking, talking piece of bad news.

To their horror, hundreds of thousands of Americans every year find that — their lawyers' reassurances to the contrary — they come out of the affair with a stigma hanging over them that takes many years to erase, and that they would have been definitely better off working out a repayment program with the court.

In the case of questions coming from bankrupts, of course, one has to make a judgment subject at all times to error — as to whether the letter-writer is really sincere or not.

If he doesn't ring true, then the best you can do is to tell him to forget his home-building or remodeling plans, because his past credit record doesn't justify anyone's trust.

If there is something in the letter that suggests that he has changed his attitude towards bankruptcy, then, perhaps, he is better advised to sit down with his local credit bureau and try to work something out.

It's quite true that the letter-writer to whom this correspondent had reference had a half-dozen strikes against him by virtue of his past record of defaulting on obligations, and by virtue of his wanting to take on obligations that, perhaps might even block a man with an unblemished record of debt repayment.

And yet, because he sounded contrite and sincere, I suggested that he lay his cards on the table with his credit bureau. Maybe, I am not that good a judge of human nature, but I find it difficult to issue a blanket condemnation in such cases. More the fool, I, perhaps.

MR. CAMPBELL: I have been considering shopping for and buying a small house in the city.

I have never owned property, and would like to know if I should engage an attorney or some other person, to help me over the hump as to searching the title, and all the other small hidden things that are involved in buying property. Thank you for any advice that you might give me. — Mr. F.E.A.

ANSWER: It's a wise man who knows his own limitations and I congratulate you for laying your cards strictly on the table, and admitting that you are a "babe-in-the-woods."

Actually, the procedure isn't all that sinister and danger-laden. Despite the fact that buying a piece of property is, indeed, a mass of legal technicalities, they are complex only to the uninitiated.

I would suggest, for openers that you confine your real estate dealings to a dealer who is a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, an organization which has a code of ethics that goes considerably beyond the lip-service stage.

Your local Realtor will not only represent you fairly in your negotiations with the seller whom he is representing, but will also make sure that you are not led astray in the title search, and the other — as you call them — "small, hidden things" making up the transaction.

Don't be so fearful; buying property is really no worse than a bad head cold — albeit, a bad head cold sometimes.

MR. CAMPBELL: I have found that attorneys specialize. How may I know who is qualified to examine papers in a real estate deal? If an offer is made, I should like an attorney to see all papers before we sign them. — Mr. W.N.B.

ANSWER: My, my, aren't we going through a period of professional distrust these days?

What you are asking, of course, is a pretty moot point — virtually any attorney admitted to practice is "qualified to examine papers in a real estate deal."

Admittedly, as you suggest, attorneys do indeed specialize and there are many of them who do not care to get involved in real estate matters.

If you have no acquaintanceship among your local real estate dealers, any of whom undoubtedly can steer you to a lawyer dealing in real estate practice, I suggest that you contact your local Bar Association for guidance. They're not really that hard to find, you know.

(Campbell welcomes letters. He is unable to enter into personal correspondence, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.)

New Matson Facility Rises

Construction work is continuing at the 55-acre Terminal Island site of Los Angeles Harbor's new $5 million Matson Container facility. Cranes assist workmen in building the terminal's 1,500-foot wharf, on which Matson will operate two huge container gantries. Complex, scheduled for completion Oct. 1, includes a maintenance and repair shop, a four-story office building and mezzanine for terminal communications control, a container freight station and control tower, and a gas station.

Arizonan Invents Lightweight Body Armor

WASHINGTON — Lighted for Goodyear Aerospace Corporation, Akron, Ohio, is protecting American aircraft and helicopter crewmen from enemy bullets.

The inventor is Richard L. Cook of Flagstaff, Ariz., a former engineer in the Goodyear Arizona Division and now a private consultant. He will be awarded Patent 3,516,898 shortly, and received a related patent May 5.

The basic discovery, made in 1962, was the effectiveness of armor combining a ceramic face with a fiberglass backing. A bullet striking the ceramic material is deformed and shattered. Its nose expands in a hollow conical plug and the force is absorbed in the fiberglass.

For body use, the armor is about an inch thick and is shaped to fit the upper torso. Carried in a vest like garment, it weighs about ten and a half pounds.

Goodyear has provided 5,000 pieces of body armor for the body. It has also made more than 3,000 ceramic-fiberglass kits to be installed in or on aircraft — chiefly inside around the seats. Most aircraft now in Indochina are so equipped.

The current patent covers armor made with silicon carbide and boron carbide as the ceramic facing materials. The earlier patent specified aluminum oxide. When weight restrictions permit, metal is sometimes used as backing instead of fiberglass.

REGULATORY agencies will be able to measure the pollution given off by a smokestack without entering the plant and without alerting the management.

This is the purpose of a monitoring method being patented by Robert W. Ascheltner, vice president of Barnes Engineering Company, Stamford, Conn. He will receive patent 3,517,190.

A transmitter of infrared energy (just beyond the red end of the visible spectrum) is aimed at the plume of smoke or gas just above the stack. Near the transmitter is a receiver that detects certain waves reflected back from solid particles in the stack exhaust and translates them into a meter reading of the proportion of pollutants.

A steady stream of radiation pulses of known frequency is directed at the chimney output. Different gases and particles are characterized by their rate of infrared absorption. The nature of the pulses bounced back therefore shows what is being emitted by the stack.

Radiation from other man-made sources or from the sky does not cause interference, and the process can be used day or night.

A REISSUED patent, granted to Jerome H. Lemelson of Licensing Management Corporation, New York, covers a so-called industrial robot.

The manipulation apparatus protected by reissue Patent 28,904 is a programmed machine with an arm containing a jaw, which can grasp, move and release articles being worked on or can operate production tools. Lemelson has half a dozen patents on robots.

Six other reissues and 46 design patents, but no new invention patents were granted this week. The patent office is trying to catch up with printing delays caused by a labor dispute in the Government Printing Office.

GEORGE W. Miller, a sculptor who heads the art department at Friends Academy, North Dartmouth, Mass., has invented a psychedelic clock.

As prescribed in Patent 3,514,938, the clock face is intended to appeal particularly to those interested in abstract motifs or designs of psychedelic nature. Metallic spangles around the heart-shaped hands that points to the hour, minute and second change position continually, altering the color pattern. Miller has made a prototype and hopes to arrange for manufacture.

THE Washington diplomatic conference on the patent cooperation treaty resolved a critical negotiating issue relating to the filing dates of international patent applications. Under the proposed treaty, an international application can be filed in the inventor's country for patents on the same invention to be obtained in a number of countries. A German inventor may get a U.S. patent in this way.

The solution reached permits the U.S. to recognize for "prior art" purposes the filing date in the U.S., rather than the date of filing in Germany, and makes amendment of the American patent law unnecessary.

The co-chairmen of the conference, Eugene M. Braderman, deputy assistant secretary of state, and William E. Schuyler Jr., commissioner of patents, expressed hope that the participating countries will sign the treaty soon.

Mission Viejo Sales Zoom to Two-Month Record

The Mission Viejo Company reported 100 new home sales in June, compiling a two-month record total of 206 homes sold. It is the first time in the four-year history of the firm that 100 or more homes were sold for two months in succession.

Four new unit openings were credited in part for the outstanding sales record, according to John Martin, vice president-marketing and sales.

"In June, we opened new view-oriented increments of Granada and La Paz Homes. Coronado Homes launched a new increment, as did our newest neighborhood, Seville Homes, which opened its second unit six weeks ahead of schedule, only three weeks after the formal grand opening," said Martin.

MISSION Viejo is often cited as America's most successful master-planned community.

It currently encompasses six distinct new home neighborhoods; shopping; churches; elementary, junior high and high schools; a junior college; parks; recreation centers; the Mission Viejo Golf Club and Inn; industrial and commercial plazas; a fire station; a medical-dental building; and Old MacDonald's Farm, a nationally-known children's animal display and zoo.

An auto plaza, theatre and library are currently under construction.

Future plans for the 11,000-acre community include a major regional shopping plaza; more recreation centers and parks; a hospital; additional single and multifamily housing, and two more freeway accesses.

Firm Starts in B.P.

A new Buena Park firm, Plant Engineering Services, Inc., has been formed to provide a variety of engineering and managerial services to industrial firms.

The company will supply a full range of profit and production-enhancing services including controlled maintenance programs tailored to the individual plant with program training and startup assistance as well as follow-up service, facility planning and design, air, noise and water pollution control surveys, and plant electrical surveys.

Headquarters of the firm are at 7334 El Domino Way, Buena Park.

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — Hewlett-Packard Co. announced it will furlough most of its 11,000 workers one day every other week to achieve a 10 per cent cut in work schedules. Additionally, corporate officers will take pay cuts. The company said it considers these steps more equitable in the long run than layoffs and that the reduced working schedule will continue until business improves.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Singer Co. announced formation of a water resources division, to function as part of its metering and controls group. The move follows final agreement on the acquisition by Singer of Layne & Bowler, a Memphis-based pump maker and water services supplier.

CANYON LAKE VIEW . . . From Lodge Sun Deck

IN RIVERSIDE COUNTY

Canyon Lake Attracts Investors

Canyon Lake, the 2,017-acre watersports community 20 miles Southeast of Corona in Riverside County, has become one of the top market places for investors who have switched from securities to recreation land.

Sales at the private family recreation community continue to set a record pace despite the capriciousness of the stock market, reports W. Gordon Heath, president, Corona Land Co., which developed the project.

Heath said that the majority of the parcel buyers decide to construct second homes at a later date in view of high interest rates and scarce money, but many are selecting lots so that they can take advantage of the community's outstanding recreation program.

"WE WANT Canyon Lake lot purchasers to enjoy the recreation program as it exists now," reports Heath. "The $550,000 Canyon Lodge, a facility with meeting rooms, restaurant, game rooms and lounge, is one of the most popular spots at the lake."

"We also have a large equestrian center with show ring; the Canyon Store, carrying the theme of a country mercantile; marinas, with boat rentals; an island just for water-skiers; parks and white-sand beaches, an amphitheater for viewing watersports on Holiday Bay, an 18-hole championship golf course, and many other attractions.

"THE investors in recreation land at Canyon Lake," Heath adds, "are enjoying these facilities now despite the fact that they haven't built homes."

He said Canyon Lake now has 80 homes either on the drawing boards or under construction. The homes cost from $20,000 to more than $75,000.

"Investors find their money well secured at Canyon Lake," said Heath. "The masterplan, which called for development of a project with a $45 million investment, has protected the investments of the lot buyers from the standpoint that certain covenants and regulations were imposed under the by-laws of a Property Owners Assn.

"AS PEOPLE came to Canyon Lake to enjoy the myriad water sports, they saw that the Corona Land Co. maintained an active program to construct facilities so that they could enjoy them while they paid for their land."

"As a matter of fact," said Heath, "a number of persons have decided to purchase parcels instead of re-investing in the stock market."
